EBERT AND NOSKE BACK IN BERLIN; KAPP AND HIS SOLDIERS DEPART

Rumors That Kapp Has Killed Himself Current in Berlin

LONDON, March 18.—RUMORS are current in Berlin that Dr. Wolfgang Kapp, who was head of the reactionary Government set up in Berlin last Saturday, and who resigned yesterday, has committed suicide, according to a dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Co. from Amsterdam.

The reports were received by telephone in Amsterdam from Berlin.

NEW SYSTEM FREES PARKING POLICEMEN FOR DUTY ON BEATS

Bracket-Shaped Tours Substituted for Square Ones Reduce Work of Patrolmen

A new beat system was put into effect in Central District today by the Police Department, which reduced the tours of regular patrolmen so that 19 traffic policemen could be spared for beat duty. After a week's experiment Chief O'Brien found the new plan working so well that he decided to extend it to other districts.

By substituting a bracket-shaped beat for the old-time square beat the chief found that patrolmen could cover their territory in about half the time formerly required. Patrolmen formerly were required to circle each block in the beat.

Under the new system a policeman covering the beat between Fourth, Eighth, Chestnut and Market streets, begins at Fourth and Chestnut, walks south to Market, west to Eighth and then north to Chestnut. On the return trip he merely retraces the route. The north and south streets between Fourth and Eighth are not patrolled, but the policeman has a view of them as he walks east and west.

On the new straightaway beat the policeman can look after automobile parking, as well as his other duties, without neglecting his beat. Formerly 23 patrolmen were required to look after automobile parking in Central District. Under the new system only 14 men are required for this special detail.

MASSACHUSETTS WALSH MEN WOULD GO TO SAN FRANCISCO

Election of Democratic Delegates to Back Senator's Anti-Wilson Treaty Policy Sought.

BOSTON, March 18.—A movement to have the New England delegations to the Democratic national convention consist of men who will support the opposition of Senator Walsh of Massachusetts to the administration's treaty policy was announced today by Maj. Thomas L. Walsh, the Senator's brother and law partner.

The vote of the Massachusetts delegation on the early ballots for the presidential nomination probably will go to Senator Walsh, according to Michael O. O'Leary, chairman of the Democratic State Committee. In effect, Chairman O'Leary said, a delegation from this State favoring Walsh would be considered as unpatriotic, in that it would be free to turn its support to any candidate after a complimentary vote on early ballots.

ARMY OF 316,800 APPROVED

House Passes Reorganization Bill by Vote of 246 to 92.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—A peace time army of 299,000 men and 17,800 officers was approved today by the House in passing the army reorganization bill by a vote of 246 to 92.

The measure now goes to the Senate.

MASKED MEN RAID DISTILLERY

LEXINGTON, Ky., March 18.—Seven masked men raided the old distillery warehouse here early today, after binding two guards and the point of revolver, forced them to unlock the warehouse and stole 31 cases of whisky seized last January at Versailles, Ky., alleged to have been the property of E. E. Walsh & Co. of Louisville.

SURRENDERS ON CHARGE OF $10,000 EMBEZZLEMENT

E. L. Wieland Furnishes $1500 Bond to Answer Complaint of Firm for Which He Was Cashier.

EXPRESSED HOPE OF REPAYING MONEY

Asked Stationary Concern to Withhold Action, but Failed to Appear at Bonding Office as He Planned.

Erwin L. Wieland, 23 years old, former bookkeeper and cashier for the Skinner & Kennedy Stationery Co., 416 North Fourth street, surrendered himself at police headquarters at 11 a. m. today, having previously given bond to answer the firm's charge of embezzlement of a sum exceeding $10,000. His bond, in the sum of $1500, was signed by Fred Warner, a North St. Louis politician, and was approved by Judge Miller of the Court of Criminal Correction.

City detectives were looking for Wieland since yesterday afternoon, at 6212 Gravois avenue, where he and his wife lived with the wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Bornemann, and at the Pierce Building office of the Fidelity and Deposit Co. of Maryland, which was on his bond for $2000.

Wieland refused to answer questions of reporters, and referred questions to his attorney, Edward W. Forstel. He was smartly dressed and wore a pinch-back cravenette coat. Warner, who accompanied him to headquarters, said he had become interested in the case through Henry Hoffman, a former restaurant manager.

Wieland telephoned yesterday afternoon to H. A. Pescher, secretary and credit manager of the company, who discovered his shortage in February, and asked him what had been done about the matter. Pescher told him he had just reported the matter to the Circuit Attorney, Wieland asked that action be withheld, saying he was going to the bonding company's office, and that he hoped to make up his shortage. He did not communicate with the bonding company and members of the Bornemann family telephoned to the police last night, asking for information about him.

Sums Taken in Three Years. The investigation of Wieland's accounts ran as old sentimental song, but it came into the heart of beautiful Sydney McKnight like one of the tremendous storms that surged and roared over her father's vast cattle range. And it called for the greatest sacrifice that a girl can make. But with a sob in her heart and high resolve in her soul, she made it. A remarkable situation with an astounding solution.

Czar's Sister Found in Rags, Living in Boxcar

Grand Duchess Olga Discovered by American Red Cross in Southern Russia—Was Helping Poor.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, March 18.—Grand Duchess Olga, sister of the late Czar Nicholas of Russia, has been found by American Red Cross workers, living in a box car near Novorossiysk, South Russia, it was announced today at the headquarters of the American Red Cross here. The Grand Duchess, according to the announcement, is one of three surviving members of the House of Romanoff. She was found "tolling among fellow refugees from the territory recently conquered by the Bolsheviks, giving such assistance as she could, although herself clad in rags and grateful for any food and clothing she could find."

Refugees have been pouring into Novorossiysk by the thousands, all reduced to the most abject poverty. The South Russian Commission of the American Red Cross has been caring for them to the limit of its resources and it was in the midst of this work that the plight of the royal refugees was discovered.

Divorced Prince Oldenburg. "Grand Duchess Olga formerly was the wife of Prince Oldenburg, whom she divorced, later marrying a young army officer, since which time, although the old Russian law permits her to retain her title, she has lived quietly at Rostov as Mme. Koulinskoy. She has two children, but the Red Cross report does not reveal the fate of these or of her husband. Another sister of the Czar, Grand Duchess Xenia, lives in London, while the only other Romanoff surviving is the Dowager Empress, who lives in Copenhagen."

Grand Duchess Olga is 38 years old.

BOOM IN ICE CREAM TRADE EXPECTED, DUE TO PROHIBITION

Manufacturers Installing New Machinery to Increase Output 50 to 200 Per Cent.

Ice cream manufacturers here are anticipating an increase in their business this summer, as a result of prohibition, and several companies have installed new machinery to enable them to turn out from 50 to 200 per cent more ice cream than last season.

An official of a large milk distributing company said that the firm's business had indicated that milk is coming more in favor with men as a drink with their meals.

EMPLOYEES OF TWO PLANTS TO VOTE ON DAYLIGHT SAVING

Employees of the Wagner Electric Manufacturing Co. and of the Crunden Martin Manufacturing Co. will vote within the next few weeks on a proposal to have their working hours changed during the summer months to conform to the daylight saving plan during the war period. In the event the vote is favorable the adoption of the plan will then be dependent upon the willingness of the United Railways Co. to provide the necessary car service.

The daylight saving plan also will be placed before the department heads of the St. Louis Car Co. for their consideration Saturday. Edward B. Meissner, vice president, says it will not be feasible unless adopted by local industries generally.

INQUEST FAILS TO CLEAR UP BOY'S DEATH IN LAKE

"Whether an Accident or Crime Not Ascertained," Coroner's Report in Case of George Probert.

LAD LAST SEEN ALONE ON STREET

Father Believes He Might Have Been Thrown Into Water in Park After Being Hit by Auto.

Whether the death of 7-year-old George Probert, whose body was found in O'Fallon Park Lake, was "an accident or a crime," was not determined by the Coroner's inquest, according to the verdict returned today by Deputy Coroner Probert. The verdict was "Found dead; apparently drowned; whether an accident or a crime not ascertained."

There has been no autopsy to establish the fact of drowning, and one theory offered has been that the boy was killed by an automobile, and his body thrown into the lake. The police and the Circuit Attorney's office will investigate further.

The boy was the son of Frank Probert of 4133 W. Carter avenue. He disappeared Tuesday evening and his body was found yesterday morning in two feet of water, in the part of the lake nearest the Florissant avenue entrance of the park. The body was face downward, 12 feet from the bank, with the head pointing toward the land. Those who removed the body from the water said there was no mud on the shoes except on the toes. There was a cut in the fourth of an inch long on the left side of the head.

Boy's Cap Not Found. Although the boy was fully clothed, his light-colored stocking cap was not found. It appeared that a boy, falling into such shallow water under ordinary circumstances, would have been able to get out.

The father said to a Post-Dispatch reporter that he believed the boy might have been thrown into the water purposely, after having been killed, or perhaps only knocked down and stunned, by an automobile. Such an act would constitute murder, while the accidental injury of the boy by an automobile, even if it resulted in death, would be no more than manslaughter in the eyes of the law.

Policemen advanced a theory that the boy might have been playing "conquer leader" with other boys, and might have fallen into the water when he fell into the water when crawling.

No Playmates Found. A Post-Dispatch reporter, inquiring in the neighborhood could find no boy who had played with him, and learned that usually his only playmate was his 5-year-old brother, Frank Jr.

George was seen by his aunt, Mrs. Walter Probert, 4117 W. Carter avenue, as late as 5:30 p. m. He was then playing by himself on Fair avenue, between Green Lea place and Penrose street. His younger brother had not been with him during the latter part of the afternoon.

In the search for the boy Tuesday night, the father visited drug stores and picture theaters all over the O'Fallon Park region.

The witnesses at the inquest were park employees who removed the body, a policeman who was present and the man who first noticed the body in the water, David Ryan, of 216 Linton avenue. They testified to the facts, and the park superintendent said he had not noticed any boys playing about the lake Tuesday since early in the afternoon.

HITCHCOCK SAYS COLBY KNOCKS OUT OPPOSITION

Nominee for Secretary of State Makes Statement Before Committee Delaying His Confirmation.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Hatchcock Colby made an extensive statement to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today regarding the information on which the committee is delaying action on his nomination as Secretary of State.

Those present maintained the silence which has surrounded all previous hearings on the subject, but it was said the nominee would not be asked to appear again. The committee will meet again tomorrow and some members expect that it may take final action then.

Colby declined to talk about the matters discussed. While Chairman Lodge and most other members refused to predict what would result from the nominee's statement, Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska said he considered Colby's statement "a complete knock-out for the opposition."

ISSUES STATEMENT WILSON SHOULD ACCEPT MODIFIED TREATY

Urges Early Ratification Because of Drifting World Conditions, Declaring Hope of Nations Revolves Upon League—Thinks Reservations Should Assure Those Timid as to Entanglements.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 18.—Herbert Hoover, in a statement issued from his office here today, advocates early ratification of the peace treaty, "so long as the final form gives us freedom of action and room for constructive development of peace," and with reservations which "should satisfy the most timid as to entanglements." The statement was issued, it was explained, in response to a request of the Washington Star for his views on the subject.

Hoover expressed the belief that the reservations "do not destroy the possibility of the creation of a potent organization to mitigate the dangers in front of us, and the alternatives are a continuation of our state of war for another year or the unthinkable thing, for us to make a rate peace after we have gone so far as to agree on its main lines with comrades-in-arms."

"Despite the feeling of President Wilson and his associates that the strength of the league is somewhat undermined by the reservations, Hoover expressed the opinion 'they also should accept' them."

"Regardless of what any of us may think should have been the provisions of either the league or the treaty," he asserted, "we and the world should not be kept waiting longer for a settlement."

World Drifting Back Steadily. Due to the "unsettlement and other causes that the league would mitigate," he continued, "the world is steadily drifting back to a worse state of international antagonism than existed before 1914. The naval strength of every great nation, except the enemy and Russia, has been increased during the war. Many great armies have been mobilized, and the world is again engaging in preparation and the actual number of men under arms today is much greater than before 1914. . . . No moderating influences can be set up until we come to conclusion and join the league upon our participation, subject to approval of Congress, on use of force, in an obligation to preserve the territorial integrity and political independence of its members against aggression."

As to Object of Article X. "The President seems to feel that the foundations of the league rest upon our participation, subject to approval of Congress, on use of force, in an obligation to preserve the territorial integrity and political independence of its members against aggression."

"Without entering upon this method of prevention of aggression, I believe a great foundation of peace does lie in the continuous functioning of a body of great international relations engaged upon conciliation, the mitigation of antagonism, the very effective boycott of disturbers through arousal of public opinion against them and through it the immediate undertaking of disarmament of the world to a simple defensive footing."

Points Out Need of League. Hoover points out that, in case the treaty failed of ratification, citizens of the United States would have no right in Germany or Austria, and we would have no proper equality in trade with a large portion of Europe.

"The United States need not be involved in scores of treaty commissions dealing with purely European matters," he said, "yet the Republican Commission, the most powerful body in the world, is conducting without our veto a control that affects our trade, not only in Europe, but many other interests highly important to us closer at home. . . . Naturally, with us outside the treaty, we must expect the commission to at least neglect our interests."

"In my view, the soul of the league as an influence to the prevention of war may have died in world antagonism long before we came to our presidential election. The league is, of course, already in actual being amongst the other members."

RESERVATIONS BY REED ARE BEATEN IN TREATY FIGHT

Vote on Ratification May Be Reached Tomorrow—Dozen Reservations Remain.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, March 18.—Plans to organize a campaign in Middle Western States for Herbert Hoover for the Republican presidential nomination were made yesterday by representatives from 11 states who attended a meeting in Chicago at the invitation of Ralph Arnold, a California mining engineer who started the California Hoover campaign.

Headquarters for Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Missouri and Kansas would be opened in Chicago soon, Arnold said.

ALLIES THREATEN TO DEPRIVE TURKS OF THEIR CAPITAL

Warning Given, After Occupation of Constantinople, Massacres Would Modify Former Decisions.

MINISTER OF WAR AND PRINCE HELD

City Was Occupied by Forces of the Allies With Only One Clash in Which British Lost Two Men.

By the Associated Press.
CONSTANTINOPLE, Wednesday, March 17.—The second day of the inter-allied occupation of Constantinople, carried out on Tuesday by large forces from the imposing war fleet in the Bosphorus, passed with entire calm, the Turkish police co-operating in keeping order. The ferry and telephone services have been resumed. Only small detachments of allied soldiers are visible in the streets and about the public buildings.

The French and the Italians had only small forces here and they are far less active than the British troops, which are excellently organized and took the city over with the precision of clock work.

Among the prisoners taken were Esmad Pasha, Nationalist leader, and Esmad Pasha, who was Minister of War just before the great war, and who has been the chief organizer of the propaganda for an American mandate.

An imperial prince who was conspicuous in the crisis and Senator Mahmud Pasha also were taken into custody.

Allied Proclamation.
Upon the occupation of Constantinople Tuesday the British, French and Italian High Commissioners issued the following proclamation:

"First: Occupation is provisional. Second: The entente powers have no intention to destroy the Sultan's authority. They wish rather to strengthen it in all places which shall remain under Ottoman administration.

"Third: The entente powers persist in their purpose not to deprive the Turks of Constantinople, but if, God forbid, troubles develop and massacres occur, the decision probably will be modified.

"In this critical hour everyone must attend to his own affairs and assist in maintaining general security without permitting himself to be deceived by those whose propaganda tends to destroy the last hope of building upon the ruins of the ancient Turkish empire a new Turkey. In short, it is the duty of every person to obey orders issued from the Sultan.

"Certain persons implicated in threats, of which more will be told later, have been arrested in Constantinople. They naturally will be held responsible for these acts and for the consequent results."

Fleet Anchored in Bosphorus.
The landing of the forces of occupation was carried out under the guns of the formidable allied fleet anchored in the Bosphorus. The British dreadnought Benbow was moored at the Galata quay, her guns trained upon the city. Another man-of-war faced the arsenal in the Golden Horn, while all the other war vessels in the Bosphorus were standing by with their decks cleared for action.

The population showed little alarm, nor was there any sign of panic except in one section of the city, where the commanders of the allied troops brought their forces ashore.

These forces included 4000 blue-jackets and marines from the British warships and contingents from the forces of all the allies represented here. Indian detachments having Moslems on their rosters were among the troops taking part in the operation.

Proclamation to People.
The dead walls of Constantinople were placarded with a proclamation by Major-General F. M. Wilson of the British troops, declaring that any act that threatened the safety of the allied forces would be tried by court-martial and sentenced to death or such other penalty as the court might fix. The proclamation was printed in Greek, English and French.

Kaiser, Guarded by Moats, Drawbridges, Patrols and Walls, Agrees to Be Good

Will Be Confined to Doorn and Amerongen—Straddles Chairs and Rides Them Nervously on News From Berlin.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, March 18.—The Dutch Premier has informed the president of the Upper and Lower Houses of Parliament by letter that former Emperor William has agreed to be good.

A royal decree, dated March 15, says the place allotted to former Emperor William as his residence will form part of the province of Utrecht, and that it will be fixed later by the Government. The decree was issued with an announcement to the allied premiers regarding their recent note concerning the one-time monarch.

The Premier has stated that the Government is considering an official allotment of land at Willemstad as a place of residence for former Crown Prince Frederick William. He said that up to the present the Government had no indication that the former Emperor or his son had taken part in any political activities whatsoever.

The Associated Press has been informed from an official source that the real effect of the decree concerning William Hohenzollern will be to restrict him to Doorn and Amerongen and their surroundings, and that one of the main purposes of the decree was to exclude him from any large towns.

How Kaiser Is Guarded.
Reinforcement of the Dutch guard at Von Bentinck Castle, which since the middle ages, has been protected by moats and drawbridges, has made the former German emperor's refuge a veritable prison fortress capable of defense even in the unexpected

Bonar Law announced in the House of Commons yesterday that the anti-entente law had been occupied by allied troops as proposed, and that at only one point was there fighting. Two British soldiers were reported killed and one officer and three men wounded. Turkish officials said eight Turks were killed and others were wounded.

Bonar Law said that at the same time the Turkish Government had been warned that the occupation of Constantinople would continue until the terms of the peace treaty were duly executed, and, further, if outbreaks against native Christians continued, the terms would be more severe.

guarding the public buildings but it is asserted that this is not because trouble is feared.

Gustav Noske, Minister of Defense in the Ebert Government, before departing for Berlin, said the Ebert administration would be back in Berlin within a week. He explained his failure to use force before departing from Berlin for Dresden by declaring his Generals had abandoned him.

COBLENTZ, March 18.—Gustav Noske, Minister of Defense in the Ebert Cabinet, arrived in Berlin by airplane late yesterday, having made the trip from Stuttgart. Gen. von Seeckt, chief of staff for the Constitutional Government, has replaced Gen. von Lüttwitz as commander at Berlin, according to advices.

The danger from Bolshevism seems to be at its extreme. The Kappists are withdrawing from Berlin and forces commanded by Spartacan leaders are expected to attack the city at any time. A consolidation of all parties to fight Bolshevism has been formed, only the independent Socialists not being included. Elections will be held no later than June, according to latest dispatches from Stuttgart.

Official Announcement of the Kapp Resignation.
By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, Wednesday, March 17.—The resignation of Chancellor Kapp and his chief officials was confirmed by the following official announcement:

"General Provisional Director Kapp has retired, with the object of bringing about a peaceful resolution. Gen. von Lüttwitz has retired for similar reasons.

"The Vice Chancellor in the name of the Imperial President has accepted the resignations, and has instructed Major-General von Seeckt with the provisional conduct of affairs as Commander in Chief."

Following this was a report that Von Lüttwitz changed his mind, and decided to stay on in Berlin.

Three More Sea Lions for Zoo.

event of an attack by raiders desiring to free the exile. The castle is situated in a big square. The four sides are posted, while two of them have additional walls. The latter two sides are on the public road, and on the other two sides, which have no walls, are private paths belonging to the Von Bentincks. Constables and military police patrol the roads with loaded rifles night and day.

To the right of the main entrance is a small building in which rest reinforcements. Here sentries are on guard. Besides this main gateway, at a distance of 130 yards is another gate, barring the inner driveway to the drawbridge. More sentries are stationed here. Still further there, on where the road bends at yet another gate, there is also a guard. Then, turning to the right, a driveway leads to the terrace on which the castle stands. Police patrol this terrace.

Garden at the Rear.
At the rear of the castle there is a garden, then a moat and then a private pathway on the dike, and this is constantly patrolled. Beyond the dike is a meadowland crossed by ditches and hedges and in the meadow are patrols, who are particularly warned to guard against the landing of airplanes there. Only the Bentinck family and the former emperor's few servants have permission to enter the castle.

The nervousness of former Emperor William continues as he follows the news of the varying fortunes of the Kapp adventure. He sits most of the time in an odd posture on chairs in his apartment, straddling each chair, grasping its back and rocking to and fro.

FARMERS STRIVE TO CUT OUT MIDDLEMAN

Will Submit This and 11 Other Questions to Presidential Candidates.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 18.—Elimination of the middleman, protection of the farmer in his right to organize, appointment of an expert acceptable to organized agriculturists as Secretary of Agriculture and representation for farmers on all boards and commissions are the main planks in the farmers' platform outlined in a questionnaire for all presidential candidates, according to C. S. Barrett, president of the national board and chairman of the Committee of Farm Organizations which drew up the document.

Other issues presented include the free and unquestioned right of collective buying, reduction of the farm tenancy evil, improvement of farm credit facilities, national conservation and the maintenance of "free speech, free press and free assembly."

The committee already has listed 14 active or prospective candidates to receive the inquiry and will add others "as each candidate, active or receptive," assumes that status. The list now includes Vice President Marshall, Senators Johnson, Poinsett, Harding, Lenroot and Owen, Govs. Cox, Spruill, Coolidge and Goodrich, and Herbert Hoover.

There is no plan for interrogation of congressional candidates, but copies of the questionnaire will be placed in the hands of all members of the organization. Frequent reports will be made on answers received from the presidential candidates.

Will Stay to Finish.
"We have started something that we will stay with to the finish," Barrett said. "This questionnaire is a statement of principles, not a perfunctory inquiry as to where candidates stand on certain questions."

"It is not an exclusive platform. It is large enough to accommodate all honest citizens and all who endorse its principles are invited to aid in enacting them into law. This can be done if we have the right kind of a President and are represented in Congress by the proper sort of patriotic citizens."

The questionnaire is in the form of a letter asking the recipient to send "definite and clear replies" to 12 specific inquiries as to his views.

William Jennings Bryan received the first copy of the questionnaire. In accepting the questionnaire, Bryan said he was not a candidate at this time, but would study the series of inquiries and give the farm board his opinion upon them. He told the delegation which presented it: "I would not want to be a candidate when I am not a candidate. But if I should be a candidate, you will know soon enough."

BODIES EXCHANGING TRADE FACTS TO BE PROSECUTED

Government Considers Data Against 30 Combinations Under Order Obtained Against Lumbermen.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 18.—Trade organizations exchanging trade information are placed in the category with trusts by the Department of Justice which, following the recent court decision in the hardwood lumber case at Memphis, announced last night its intention to proceed against all commercial groups conducting operations similar to those of the hardwood lumber men.

While the lumber case was of a civil character, Assistant Attorney General Ames, who directed the prosecution, declared it had clearly established the law's application. It was on this basis, he said, that the Government would direct the prosecution of corresponding trade bodies believed to have operated in combination to restrain trade.

It was understood that the department had under consideration data concerning more than 30 such groups. The Memphis decision gave strength to the Government's case in such suits as the action against the cement manufacturers, the Chicago mosaic and living Co., which involves the Chicago Mantel and Tile Contract Association, and the Chicago labor union cases, officials said.

In the latter case, an entirely new principle would be established in the relationship between capital and labor if a decision favorable to the Government was rendered, it was explained.

Ames said that no trade organization could feel immune from having filed with the department papers defining its operations. He made it clear that the department had not committed itself to show them leniency.

The Memphis decision was the first of its kind and is viewed as having given the Government new angles to develop in the campaign against the big trusts. The department expected to start soon seeking evidence against certain members of the Chicago Butter and Egg Board is now awaiting trial and there are said to be a score or more of producers of exchange which probably will be subjected to close scrutiny as a result of the Government's victory at Memphis.

The Memphis decision also was said to have furnished a basis for information with respect to prices and stocks by injunction method. It was expected, however, that many of the organizations coming within the scope of the department would voluntarily cease practices which Judge McCall held served to induce high prices.

The department will not seek a settlement by this means, however. Ames declared that in all cases where violations are discovered, "proceedings of an appropriate character" would be instituted.

Movie Comedian and Actress Wife Who Says She Will Seek Divorce

MILDRED HARRIS CHAPLIN.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN.

CHARGE FAMOUS MOVIE COMEDIAN HAS NEGLECTED HER AND FAILS TO SUPPORT HER.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 18.—Mildred Harris Chaplin, wife of Charlie Chaplin, admitted today that she would file suit for divorce against the famous movie comedian. She declared they had been separated several months.

Without cause, and so frequently that his home life has become unbearable, Mrs. Chaplin asserts, her husband has left her alone and neglected while she waited for him in vain at her home, finally deserting her altogether and making his residence at the Los Angeles Athletic Club.

Several times since, she says, he has appeared at her Oxford street home with declarations that unless she accept $25,000 and file suit for divorce in Nevada on "nominal grounds" he would institute a divorce action against her.

After these threats, she said, detectives followed her constantly. Unable to stand the strain and the pity of her friends, Mrs. Chaplin asserts, she placed her case in the hands of an attorney.

Revelation of the Chaplins' domestic unhappiness completes the disclosure of marital woes existing in the homes of the "Big Three" on this photoplay world, coming as it does close after the divorce of Mary Pickford and her husband, and the divorce of Douglas Fairbanks.

Mrs. Chaplin, herself a screen figure of note and former successful performer on the legitimate stage, says she bought all her own clothing out of her own funds and that Charlie contributed little or nothing to her support.

Several times since, she says, he has appeared at her Oxford street home with declarations that unless she accept $25,000 and file suit for divorce in Nevada on "nominal grounds" he would institute a divorce action against her.

After these threats, she said, detectives followed her constantly. Unable to stand the strain and the pity of her friends, Mrs. Chaplin asserts, she placed her case in the hands of an attorney.

Revelation of the Chaplins' domestic unhappiness completes the disclosure of marital woes existing in the homes of the "Big Three" on this photoplay world, coming as it does close after the divorce of Mary Pickford and her husband, and the divorce of Douglas Fairbanks.

Mrs. Chaplin, herself a screen figure of note and former successful performer on the legitimate stage, says she bought all her own clothing out of her own funds and that Charlie contributed little or nothing to her support.

HOOVER FAVORS ACCEPTING THE TREATY WITH RESERVATIONS

In sympathy with the purpose of the reservation, Mr. Hoover said that a preliminary general assertion of adherence to the principle of self-determination.

"It is to my mind purely hypocritical," said Lodge, "to have such a declaration come from a country which had fought for four years to prevent self-determination. And we should fight again if one of the states attempted to leave the Union. I do not think we should go before the world with a declaration of such a policy."

By a vote of 55 to 31, the Senate refused to lay on the table a reservation to the peace treaty expressing sympathy with the aspirations of Ireland for self-government. This was taken to forecast adoption of the reservation.

An effort by Senator Thomas, Democrat, Colorado, to add a clause expressing hope that the people of Korea soon would be freed from the "tyranny of Japan," was defeated, 34 to 45.

The Senate also voted down, 37 to 42, the motion of Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, the Republican leader, to strike out a general declaration of the adherence of the United States to the principle of self-determination. The Republican irreconcilables combined with the Democrats against the proposal.

KINLOCH OFFICIAL TELLS OF LISTENING IN

Overheard Union Leaders Talking, He Testifies in U. S. Court Injunction Hearing.

R. Morton Moss, superintendent of the Kinloch Telephone Co., testifying before Federal Judge Farris today in the company's injunction suit against Local No. 2 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, 33 of whose members have been on strike since Feb. 10, told of "cutting in" on a telephone wire and listening to a conversation of a union official and one of the company's employees.

The Kinloch Co. and the Kinloch Long Distance Telephone Co., obtained a drastic temporary order against the strikers, issued by Judge Farris March 3. The present hearing is on the application for a permanent injunction.

Moss said he heard a conversation between Al H. Givens, business agent of the local union, and an employee of the company in Alton, whose name is Pooles. This conversation, he said, was before the meeting of Jan. 30, at which the strike was voted.

Argues With Givens.
Moss testified that Givens and the other man suspected that he was listening in and Givens said, with an epithet, that he guessed Moss was on the line. Moss said: "Yes, I am on the line, and if you will come to my office and say to my face what you have said over the line about me I'll make you eat your words, no matter how big you are."

Moss did not say whether he ever called.

Moss said he "cut in" on the line with the help of an operator. Counsel for the union asked him whether he considered this a proper procedure, and whether he had given orders to operators to "cut in" and notify him when union officials were using the wire. The judge held that these questions need not be answered.

Moss testified that, after the strike was called, he personally overheard a conversation between Givens and Charles P. Ford, secretary of the international brotherhood, in Springfield, Ill., in which Ford said to Givens that the union here "pulled a bone" in calling the strike, that the strike was illegal and in violation of contract, and that the difference with the company should have been arbitrated.

Talks With Jennings.
Moss said that Orville F. Jennings, international representative of the union, told him the vote for the strike, at the January meeting, was 75 to 10, and that the 19 Kinloch employees who were at the meeting were the 19 who voted against the strike.

H. Linton Reber, president and general manager of the company, testified to the damage which had been done by the strike, and which might result from its continuance. He said the company was in danger of forfeiting its permits, issued under the post roads law.

The union offered as evidence a communication prepared by Secretary Ford, and sent from his office at Springfield Feb. 25 to the officials of the Kinloch company. This letter told of interviews of union officials with Moss, and expressed conclusions of the union, to the effect that (1) Moss laid off men and hired nonunion men, before the arbitration board made its findings Nov. 22; (2) that Moss required men to limit their lunch time to a half hour, until the union insisted on an hour's time, in accordance with the agreement; (3) that Moss maintained an espionage system, and reported to the men payable contained items which did not correspond with the cash books. Further inquiry showed that there had been repeated entries of $200 up to $20, for the purchase of supplies which the firm had never ordered or received.

Fischer confronted Wieland with the records on his return, and he says Wieland admitted that he was "about $500 short." Later, the manager says, when he was told that the shortage might reach $10,000, Wieland said he was ready to take his medicine.

An expert accountant has been at work on the books, the manager being a long one because of the large number of small transactions involved.

Wieland's salary was $140 a month. He wore clothes of expensive make and drove a Buick automobile costing about $1000. He is said to have related to his office associates that the car was a gift from his relatives, and that he had an independent income.

"I don't know where the money was," Fischer quotes him as saying recently. "I just spent it."

Fischer characterized Wieland as "an overgrown kid," in his seeming lack of sense of responsibility. He said that, when the shortage was discovered, Feb. 8, Wieland was notified that he was discharged, but that the next day he was found working at the books, with the money open. "We had to fire him badly," Fischer related.

HEYMAN REGARDED AS LEADING CITIZEN IN ONTARIO, ORE.

Former St. Louis Lawyer, Arrested at Niagara Falls at Bank's Instance, Was "Angel" for Stag Parties.

OFFERED TO GIVE $7500 FOR A PARK

Neglected by Society at First He and Wife Gave Party in a Hall With Thermos Bottles as Favors.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. ONTARIO, Ore., March 18.—The arrest at Niagara Falls of Lester I. Heyman, former St. Louis lawyer and fur speculator, charged with obtaining $15,000 from the First National Bank here on false pretenses, is the one topic of discussion among those who knew him as Lester Hirsch or Lester Harris in this section of the country.

In Ontario he was Lester Hirsch, highest stepper that ever entered the town. His prodigious expenditures of money here in the last three months had caused many to look upon him as a "leading citizen." He played the role of "angel" for stag parties at the Oregon Club, made an outright gift of $1000 to the Commercial Club and offered a $4500 combination chemical fire engine and truck for the Common Council would add sufficient equipment to provide a fire department. He also offered to donate $7500 for the improvement of a city park if the club would buy the ground. A committee was raising funds for this when the Hirsch bubble burst two weeks ago.

He gave many evidences of wealth, spoke glibly of his rich relatives in St. Louis and frequently wore a sweater with a big "W" on it, explaining that he was a graduate of Washington University. He told of being a former attorney and of having been "general counsel for the fur trade." These stories and his elaborate entertainment established the ground for his financial transactions.

In the last month he was elected a director of the Commercial Club and he was slated for the vice presidency at an election which was postponed because of his absence. He started a campaign for the paving of the streets in the neighborhood where he had built a bungalow, purchased another and started building one for his business partner. He agreed to bear the expense of paving all street intersections if the other property owners would stand their share of the remainder of the paving.

A petition to this effect was in circulation when he departed. When, under the name "Hirsch," he first came here in March, 1919, he worked for several months as clerk in a dry goods store. As has been told he then purchased a half interest in a dyeing and cleaning establishment. He apparently made good in this effort. Thousands of dollars' worth of machinery was bought. The plant was expanded and branch agencies were established.

See Tongues Wagging. He left here in April, 1919, and returned a few days later with his wife, whom, it was announced, he had married in Pocatello, Idaho. She is now said to have been a Miss Slicker of Wausau, Wis. He told friends here her maiden name was Ernestine Hirsch. When Ontario women failed to call on them and take them out socially he set the town tongues wagging with a big party for which he hired a hall and at which he gave the guests expensive souvenirs, such as thermos bottles for the women and gold-plated knives for the men.

During the latter part of his stay here he regularly received remittances of $500 or more monthly. These, he said, were profits from his law firm in St. Louis and Chicago. At times he said the remittances were his allowance from his father's estate.

Heyman's larger operations here began in October when he began drawing drafts on P. M. Goering, a Wausau (Wis.) hotel keeper. These drafts were in various amounts. He reimbursed Goering by sending him checks to cover the amounts of the drafts. Local bankers did not hesitate to cash these drafts, as they were always honored by Goering until about three weeks ago, when Goering refused to honor a draft for $15,000.

When he cashed the $15,000 draft he gave to the bank a statement indicating that he owned Cracville Steel, American Leather and other valuable stocks, cash, in Wisconsin and $40,000 worth of real estate in Los Angeles. His arrest on a charge of false pretenses is based on an accusation that this statement

GROVER CLEVELAND BERGDOLL.

AMERICAN STIRS LONDON BERGDOLL VERDICT WITH STATUE OF CHRIST SENT TO WASHINGTON

Figure Slim, but Strong, With Conventional Softness of Feature Missing. Trial Ends Suddenly When Defense in Draft Case Offers no Testimony.

By the Associated Press. LONDON, March 18.—Jacob Epstein, American sculptor, has set London talking by the exhibition of his statue of the Risen Christ.

The Savior is represented by a more than life sized stone figure, bearing the wrappings of the tomb. The arms are free and the right hand is held upon a level with the breast while the left hand points to the wound in the palm caused by a nail of the Crucifixion.

The body is slender and unaccustomed, and the effect of slenderness is intensified by the long line of a portion of the grave clothes hanging from the right arm to the ground.

The face is strange, grave and dignified, with a small chin, a high forehead and delicate nose and the suggestion of a beard. The head is square and high, poised strongly upon a slim, straight neck.

There is nothing of the conventional softness of feature so general in the Italian representation of the Christ.

"Every man has his own idea of Christ and I have tried to express my idea in stone," said the sculptor.

"The head is not a racial head, it is neither Jewish nor European. All the great Italian Christs had something of humanity in them, something universal. That is what I have aimed at, to picture Christ first of all a man."

of his financial condition was not accurate. Before leaving town he turned over to the bank in part payment of the amount of the draft a half interest in the cleaning establishment and money which he raised through the sale of his household goods and other readily convertible property.

St. Louis Attorney in Niagara Falls. Special to the Post-Dispatch. BUFFALO, N. Y., March 18.—Lester I. Heyman, arrested at Niagara Falls under the name Lester Hirsch on a charge of making false pretenses to an Ontario (Ore.) bank, has admitted his identity and will return to Oregon without requisition papers. Letters from relatives have been received here, offering to aid him in his trouble. One of these is said to have been sent by his mother.

Attorney Lon O. Hocker of St. Louis arrived here yesterday and went to Niagara Falls, where he had a long conference with Heyman and was present when arrangements were made to take Heyman back to Oregon. It was understood here that Hocker had been engaged as counsel for Heyman by St. Louis relatives.

SUIT FOR BLANKE $800,000 ESTATE UNDER ADVISEMENT

Mrs. Ida M. Loud Asks That Trust Be Ended on Ground That It Violates Rule Against Perpetuities.

The suit of Mrs. Ida M. Loud of 3219 Russell avenue against the St. Louis Union Trust Co., to end the trust created by the will of her mother, Mrs. Mary Jane Blanke, widow of August H. Blanke, candy manufacturer, was taken under advisement yesterday by Circuit Judge Calhoun.

The plaintiff asks that the entire estate, valued at more than $800,000, be turned over to her without restriction on the ground that the trust violates the rule against perpetuities. This rule, it is alleged, provides that no one can legally create a trust estate for a period longer than 21 years after the death of any heir mentioned in the trust.

John M. Goodwin, attorney for Mrs. Loud, pointed out that Mrs. Blanke's will also created a trust for her child that may be born to the plaintiff after the death of her mother. The law, he asserted, contemplates that trusts can be created only for an heir who is in existence at the time of the death of the decedent.

The trust company, through Attorney P. Taylor Bryan, argued that Mrs. Blanke's trust arrangement was within the law. According to the defense, the trust is unquestionably legal in respect to Mrs. Loud and her three sons. In so far as any unborn children are concerned the situation has not arisen and until that situation does arise the will should stand as made and at present it violates no law, it was argued. The testimony showed that the plaintiff is 60 years old.

$2000 a Year Provided. It was provided in the will that Mrs. Loud was to receive $2000 a year, which amount was to be increased to $4000 a year in the event her husband died. Discretionary power was given the trustee to increase this allowance, having in mind, however, that the daughter was to live economically. The main income was to be applied on the principal and held until after the petitioner's death, for the benefit of Mrs. Loud's children, then alive or any that might be born to her after her mother's death.

The defendant introduced testimony showing that the yearly income of Mrs. Blanke's estate is $60,000. Of this it is paying to Mrs. Loud approximately $20,000 a year, having exercised its discretion to increase her allowance. Out of this sum Mrs. Loud pays her sons $200 a month each. Although they are named as co-defendants in the suit, they filed an answer asking that the property be turned over to their mother.

Isaac H. Orr, trust officer of the St. Louis Union Trust Co., testified that the estate had increased considerably since Mrs. Blanke's death in 1914. He admitted it is in excess of $800,000, assigning the reason for the increase to the war. At the time of Mrs. Blanke's death, he stated, the estate owned 1700 shares in the Grady Mining & Milling Co. Prior to the war, he said, this stock had not been paying any dividends, but after hostilities began the stock became a paying investment and the trust company first took charge of it at $900 a share, a total of $1,530,000.

In addition the estate owned 608 shares in the Blanke-Wenker Candy Co. Orr testified that this stock did not pay dividends when the trust company first took charge of the estate, but that it netted 20 per cent last year. These two items have increased the estate's income by $45,000, he said.

IT PAYS TO HAVE SMALL AUTO. Sometimes it pays to have a small automobile. William Kelly, 3951 West Pine boulevard, who owns a Ford coupe, parked it in front of a fire plug downtown yesterday afternoon. After he and his wife finished shopping and returned to the car, a patrolman told them to move to the station. Kelly climbed in. Mrs. Kelly climbed in. "There's no room for me," said the "cop."

"No, I guess not," said Kelly. "Good-by."

The policeman let it go at that.

STRANGERS WIFE AND HIDES HER BODY IN TRUNK

Connecticut Man, Caught in New York, Confesses Murder—Woman Married When 15.

By the Associated Press. NEW BRITAIN, Conn., March 18.—The body of Mrs. Anna Evans, 29 years old, was found in a trunk here yesterday at the home of her sister, Mrs. Albert Powell. An autopsy by Deputy Coroner Costello disclosed that the woman had been strangled to death. A toy harness which Mrs. Evans had bought for her 4-year-old son last week was drawn tightly around her neck.

The woman's husband, George Evans, disappeared Tuesday. Word was received from New York that a man held there had confessed to strangling his wife and had admitted that he was Evans. Mrs. Evans was 15 years old when married.

NEGRO TO ENTER RACE FOR CONGRESS AGAINST L. C. DYER. Dr. W. A. Venable to File Declaration Soon—Has Campaign Committee of 250 Working.

Negroes backing the movement to have a negro candidate against Congressman Dyer for the Republican nomination for Congress in the Twelfth District, announced today that Dr. William A. Venable, dean of the Lincoln-Lee Institute, a school for negroes recently incorporated, would file his declaration with the office with the Secretary of State in Jefferson City within a few days.

The venerable campaign committee, which, it is announced, includes negroes "from bootblack to preacher and scrub-women to teacher," has opened headquarters at 614 North Compton avenue. It is said to consist of 250 negro men and women.

Charles Jackson, one of the active workers, said that the negroes had received assurance of help from a number of white politicians in the district, the population of which, Jackson said, was 80 per cent negro.

"We believe the negroes are entitled to live as citizens in the Twelfth District," Jackson said, "and we are going to insist on having the office. If they don't let us name the candidate in the primary we are going to see that the Democratic nominee is elected in November. Dyer is not going back if the negroes of the district can prevent it, and we think we can. We paid no attention to his announcement that he would appoint only negroes to West Point. We knew too well the purpose of the announcement."

A statement signed by F. S. Williams, secretary, and W. L. Owens, chairman of the Executive Committee of the Venable organization, says that 6000 negroes have signed cards pledging themselves to vote for Venable in the August primary, and that the committee is still working for the election of a negro to the district in 1918 was 12,612.

CHEMISTS SAY POISON IN OLIVES WAS DUE TO IMPROPER HEATING. Failure to Sufficiently Sterilize Fruit in Glass Containers Permitted Development of Botulism.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Failure of some packers to use a sufficiently high temperature during sterilization of ripe olives in glass containers permitted development of the botulism germ, which caused the deaths of 25 persons two months ago, said a report of specialists of the Bureau of Chemistry, who have just concluded an investigation in co-operation with the public health service.

The poison would develop just the same in tin containers, the report showed, if the olives were not sufficiently processed, but as there is no danger of botulism in tin, the packers do not hesitate to apply the proper degree of heat to kill the germ in sterilization. The investigation disclosed only one fatality where a tin container was involved, but this contained a relish consisting of minced ripe olives, the poison forming through inadequate processing.

POOR BOY, WHO LED HIS CLASS, KICKED TO DEATH

Accused Schoolmates in Dying Statement—Nicknamed Poverty Because His Clothes Were Shabby.

By the Associated Press. PUEBLO, Colo., March 18.—Six men duly sworn by Dr. Luke M. Lean, coroner, today began an investigation into the schoolboy feud which is said to have resulted Monday in the death of Ted "Poverty" Kuykendall, 8 years old. Ted was nicknamed "Poverty" because his mother is poor and he did not wear as nice clothes as the other boys.

In spite of his humble surroundings, however, he led all the other boys in his lessons at school. He was the star of the class and because of this he had the more by the other boys.

On March 4 the resentment of the well-dressed youths took form when they waylaid him on his way from school, knocked him down and kicked him into unconsciousness, his statement said. He died Monday.

The names of the other boys were revealed in the statement made to the coroner by his mother, Mrs. Mattie Hart, his nurse, and Rev. F. M. Beach, pastor of the Broadway Christian Church. The names are withheld until after the inquest.

FINED $100 ON A CHARGE OF UNDERFEEDING LIVESTOCK. William H. Taylor, 4445 West Belle place, secretary of National Farm Loan Association, with offices in the Odd Fellows' Building, was fined $100 and costs in Justice Court at Clayton yesterday for cruel treatment of animals, as a result of charges that he had failed to provide sufficient food for livestock on his farm west of Clayton. He appealed.

Taylor was arrested March 6 after complaints had been made as to his treatment of stock and after officers had found the carcasses of four animals, apparently dead from starvation, on the place.

Several witnesses owners of farms in the vicinity testified that the presence of underfed stock on the Taylor farm had been repeatedly noted and commented upon. August Moreau, who lives on the farm adjoining Taylor's, testified that he had seen eight to 12 calves closed within a pen 20 feet square on the Taylor farm, and that these animals were so weak they could not be led. He said also that the stock had no water save the seepage from the barnyard.

Taylor, who acted as his own lawyer, put his son, James J. Taylor, a former soldier, on the stand to testify that he had studied veterinary surgery while with the A. E. F. and that it was his belief the animals had died of tuberculosis and pneumonia. He testified that the post-mortem examination of the carcasses showed the presence of food. Taylor also produced receipts bills showing that he had purchased $15 worth of hay which was delivered to the farm on March 8, the day he was arrested.

The opposition fought for unopposed delegates.

13 CROATIANS FINED IN FEDERAL COURT FOR MAKING WINE

"All but Clergy Would Be Making Wine if It Were Permitted," Judge Says.

Thirteen residents of a Croatian boarding house at 2333 Chouteau avenue were fined $25 each in the Federal Court today when they pleaded guilty of manufacturing, without a permit, 30 gallons of wine containing more than one-half of 1 per cent alcohol.

In presenting the cases to Judge Faris, Assistant United States District Attorney Whaley said: "I wish to file information against Sylvester Bubun and 12 other men whose names I cannot pronounce."

The names were: Nick Toljov, John Stippig, August Mazuranc, Steve Blazip, Paul Marickich, Casper Zoric, Tony Jurich, Maria Klobuzov, John Kargazin, Charles Cuchan, Matt Marickich and Vincent Sokolich.

The defendants, through counsel, explained that they had been led to believe, by an article in a Croatian newspaper, that manufacturing wine for one's own use was not a violation. Judge Faris replied that a newspaper that would publish such information was not reliable.

"All of us, with the possible exception of the clergy, would be making wine in our homes if it were permissible," said the Court. "I have been assessing fines of $500, and in one case $1000, for such violations. I will give these defendants the benefit of the doubt."

EMBARGO ON EXPRESS SHIPMENTS TO CONTINUE. American Railway Co. Has 212 Wagons in Service and Expects to Clear Congression Soon.

The embargo on express shipments into St. Louis, which was put into effect last Saturday because of congestion in the local terminals, will continue until further notice, it was said today. It was at first believed the embargo would be lifted this afternoon.

The embargo has enabled the American Railway Express to clean up the congestion in such a way that 212 wagons were put into service on outbound shipments today. Shippers are requested not to deliver shipments to the terminals in their own conveyances, as such delivery will further congest the terminals.

UNITED RAILWAYS CO. LA AFRAID OF BANDITS

Perkins Gives Reason for Not Using One-Man Cars in St. Louis County.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch. JEFFERSON CITY, March 18.—A. T. Perkins, receivership-manager of the United Railways, told the Public Service Commission yesterday that the street car company did not put one-man cars in operation in St. Louis County because they were afraid of bandits.

The commission, in its order raising street car fares in St. Louis to eight cents, had recommended the installation of one-man cars on County lines where the traffic is light. E. Smith, consulting engineer for the city of St. Louis, had suggested the one-man cars as an economy that might be practiced by the company.

A clash occurred while Smith was being cross-examined by Perkins. After Smith had said he considered the United Railways the worst managed street car company among all the 20 or more companies of his acquaintance and had suggested a number of reforms, Perkins asked why the city does not suggest a plan for the putting into operation of the various economies.

"Why," said Smith, "the people of St. Louis, who pay the street car fares, are now paying about $100,000 a year in salaries to a bunch of experts employed by the company to do that sort of suggesting. The taxpayers of St. Louis also are helping to pay the salaries of a lot of experts employed by the Public Service Commission for that purpose. Why should the city of St. Louis impose upon the taxpayers the further burden of hiring experts to see that a street car company uses economy in its management?"

After stating to the commission that the company collects from the passengers twice to pay for new permanent improvements by taxing against "depreciation" large amounts which should be taxed against capital account, Smith declared that if this practice were corrected the street car fares could be reduced to seven cents, four for a quarter, and the company still would earn six per cent on a $60,000,000 valuation.

In illustrating to the commission how the company charges capital account to depreciation, Smith said: "If the company takes up tracks on a street which cost $15,000 and replaces it with better and heavier tracks which cost $25,000, the extra $10,000 should be charged to capital account under the ruling of the Interstate Commerce Commission, but they charge it to depreciation."

"It is taken out of operating expense, but is also added to capital, and the patrons of the road have to pay twice for it in fares because they are charged enough to pay all operating expense and a reasonable return on capital."

Field, who entered the army as a private shortly after the United States declared war on Germany, was mustered out a Captain.

FLAT TAX ON ALL INCOMES OR PROFITS PROPOSED

Chairman Fordney Has Revision Plan Ready to Submit to House Ways and Means Committee.

HOUSTON SUGGESTION UNDER CONSIDERATION

Secretary Holds Excess Profits Levy Cannot Be Reduced Before 1922—Urges Simplification.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Treasury officials were called today to present the department's views to the House Ways and Means Committee, on raising Federal revenues to meet losses as a result of the decision of the Supreme Court that stock dividends are not taxable. The committee also expected to discuss simplifications of present income and excess profits tax laws, proposed by Secretary Houston in a letter to the committee yesterday.

Joseph S. McCoy, Government actuary, and Wayne Johnson, Solicitor of Internal Revenue, were to present the department's plans and to answer questions as to the best solution of the problems presented by the court decision.

Chairman Fordney was expected to present to the committee a plan calling for a flat tax on all profits or incomes, with the same percentage on large and small incomes, and providing for the repeal of the $2000 exemption provision. Under such a plan, he stated, the rate of taxation would be reduced from the present rate of 22 per cent to approximately 17 per cent.

Objections to Plan. Democratic members of the committee, however, oppose such a plan on grounds that it shifts the burden of taxation from large incomes to the smaller ones. Representative Kitchin, Democrat, North Carolina, said "the profiteer, either in war or peace, should bear the excess burden of taxation." Present tax laws are satisfactory, he said, adding that there was small possibility of any material revision during this session of Congress.

Income and excess profits taxes cannot be reduced until after 1922, Secretary Houston wrote the House Ways and Means Committee yesterday, urging an immediate simplification of these taxes and substitution of a flat tax on gross profits instead of the graduated rates of 20 and 40 per cent.

Only very moderate reductions may be made in the calendar year of 1922, collected in 1923, the Secretary wrote. Under the plan of a flat tax, the latter stated, "it would be possible to adopt a declining rate, say of 25 per cent for the first year in which the change is in operation, 20 per cent for the second year and 15 per cent thereafter."

Unless action is taken at the present session of Congress, Houston said, existing taxes "must continue to be collected on the basis of the present law until the close of the calendar year 1922." Such a condition, he wrote, "is contemplated with the gravest apprehension."

Losses on Stock Dividends. Immediate losses to the Government under the Supreme Court's decision that stock dividends are not taxable will approximate $25,000,000, as much of the original loss would be retained through the sale of stocks and subsequent taxes on them. The Secretary estimated that $35,000,000 collected in 1918 would have to be refunded and $70,000,000 would be lost on 1918 taxes.

Aggregate losses for 1918 and 1919 under exemption to personal service corporations will approximate $12,000,000, involving 2500 corporations. The Secretary wrote, adding that the need for legislation to meet this situation arose "not so much from the possible loss of revenue as from the obvious undesirability of permitting 2500 corporations and their stockholders to escape the taxes upon the corporations and those imposed upon individuals."

Chairman Fordney, commenting on Secretary Houston's suggestion for a flat tax to supplant the present graduated system, said the repeal of the $2000 exemption granted under present income laws and the creation of a flat tax on all profits and incomes would result in lowering the average tax from 22 per cent to approximately 17 per cent.

Objections of Kitchin. "Present taxes are based on the disposition of profits," he said, "while under the proposed flat tax, there would be a straight assessment regardless of the disposition of the taxable amounts."

Representative Kitchin, Democrat, North Carolina, however, said the proposed change in the income and excess profits taxes would "switch the burden from the little fellows, least capable of bearing the burden." Present tax laws have the approval of President Wilson, former Secretary McAdoo and Congress, he stated, adding, "they are working satisfactorily."

TAX REFORM AND FEWER JOBS IN MAYER PLATFORM

Former St. Joseph Judge
 Announces He Will Run for the Democratic Nomination for Governor.

WOULD SEPARATE SOURCES OF REVENUE

Declares Cities Should Not Pay Unjust Proportion of Taxes—Opposed to Useless State Commissions.

Charles H. Mayer of St. Joseph, former State Senator, more recently Circuit Judge, issued in St. Louis yesterday his announcement that he will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor.

Mayer is 44 years old. His term in the Senate was from 1907 to 1911.
 His announcement, containing his platform as a candidate, follows:
 "I did not decide to enter the race for the Democratic nomination for Governor until I felt assured of the enthusiastic and practically unanimous support of the section of the State in which I live, and not until I had been urged to run by active Democrats in various parts of the State.

"So far as national issues are concerned, by platform will be written by the Democratic convention at San Francisco.

"The Democrats of Missouri, under the law, will hold a convention at Jefferson City in August for the sole purpose of drafting a party platform, and, being a Democrat, I expect to stand on that platform.

"Of course, I assume that the State platform will pledge its candidates to an enforcement of the law, including the eighteenth amendment to the Constitution, and the acts passed for its enforcement.

"Personally, I shall urge the adoption of a platform pledging the party to absolutely separate the sources of taxation for local purposes from the sources of taxation for state purposes.
 "Our cities and our populous counties containing large industrial centers necessarily maintain expensive local governments. They have and wish to maintain the highest standards in their public schools. If, under the present system, they increase their assessments so as to raise more revenue for local expenses, they must pay more than their share of the burdens of state government, because the tax levy for state purposes and the tax levy for local purposes are both based upon the same assessed valuation. On the other hand, there are many agricultural counties in Missouri which, comparatively speaking, have inexpensive local governments. Their county courts meet only a few days in the year, they are practically free from criminal costs, alms houses, police and fire departments; their officers, to a large extent, are paid in fees, so that, for their own use, such counties need little revenue.

"If the assessment were to be actually equalized, so that the cities and the populous counties would not be required to pay an unfair proportion toward maintaining the state government, then the agricultural counties would be compelled to raise more money than they need to pay for their local government. Other states, such as New York, have met this problem by separating the source of revenue for state purposes from the source of revenue for local purposes, and I know that Missouri can do the same thing, thus bringing about an equitable adjustment of our taxation, and thereby avoiding the conflict heretofore existing between the great agricultural parts of Missouri and the great industrial parts of Missouri; thus, too, will the state, without any injustice, be able to properly sustain the state eleemosinary and educational institutions, and each locality, without imposing an unfair burden upon itself, can raise the money to properly care for its public schools and other local institutions.

"The educational and eleemosinary institutions of this State must be maintained at the highest standard. We owe it to our unfortunate fellow citizens, for whom the ele-mosynary institutions are provided, to see that these institutions are properly maintained, whatever may be the cost. We owe it to the rising generation, to the State itself, to maintain our educational institutions, and we cannot properly maintain them unless teachers are paid such salaries as will induce those already engaged in the profession to remain, and as will cause the young men and women to prepare for and adopt the profession.

"In recent years the people all over America have demanded more and more of their state and national governments, not realizing, apparently, that every experiment necessary carried with it various commissions and various new offices. If the states continue the creation of commissions and offices, the expense of government will become unbearable. Our people ought not to be unnecessarily harassed in their business and social life with examinations, regulations and reports, multiplied and repeated again. I shall urge the adoption of a pro-

JEWISH MUSIC PLAYED BY PALESTINE ENSEMBLE

Collection Is Taken Up for the Relief of War Sufferers in Europe.

The playing of "Kol Nidrei," the ineffably sad Jewish hymn of atonement in the form in which it is said to be sung in all European synagogues, was an outstanding feature of the concert given at the Odeon last night by the "Zimro" Palestine Music Ensemble under the auspices of the People's Relief Committee for Jewish War Sufferers.

The ensemble consists of three violins, clarinet and cello. There also is a pianist in the organization. His principal function was as a soloist and most of the ensemble numbers were played without piano accompaniment.

The program in the main was made up of Jewish folk songs and dances, all of them carrying a touch of sadness so often found in the music of nomads and of them strongly suggesting Bela's gypsy songs.

"Kol Nidrei," as played by the ensemble, differs from the Bruch version usually heard at concerts in that it is more antiphonal, though the main thread of melody is the same. It has been called "the saddest music ever hymned or sung by human tongue." Its arrangement in anthem form, as played last night, added greatly to its poignancy. This quintet arrangement might profitably be included in concert orchestra libraries.

The program was varied with a piano solo, a violin duet, cello solo and a clarinet solo, all of considerable merit.

A collection of about $300 was taken up for the relief of Jewish war sufferers in Europe and approximately an equal amount was taken in at the door.

For Amending Primary Law.
 "The present primary law affords the political parties no opportunity for conference either as to State issues or as to candidates for State office. No political party can confer en masse, and no way is provided for representative consultation.

"I believe it would be to the best interest of the State to send the primary law so that, while the right of each individual fully and effectively to express his preference as to candidates for State office would be preserved, the political parties would not be deprived of the benefit of common counsel and experienced leadership.

"Under the present law nomination for a State office is too often reduced to a contest between publicity agents, dependent frequently, in the last analysis, upon the candidate's ability to pay for the advertising, and upon his willingness to violate the corrupt practice act.

"As a result of the war new questions have arisen, and in some quarters there is manifested a certain impatience because these questions cannot be settled definitely forthwith. The change in the value of money has made it necessary that we readjust our former standards of other values. This decrease in the purchasing power of the dollar is largely responsible for what has seemed to be an intensification of the conflict between labor and capital.

"The undoubted patriotism of labor and of capital, shown by the real sacrifices made by both during the war, has, I believe, taught each a higher respect for the other, and, despite some appearances to the contrary, it is my opinion that we are nearer a fair and friendly relationship between labor and capital than we have ever been. Labor, like capital, must have strong, conservative leadership, and collective bargaining gives opportunity for the development of such leadership. I hope and sincerely believe that the

BLISS NATIVE HERBS TABLETS are the product of Root, Herbs and Barks that act on the bowels and kidneys, removing the waste product that poisons the blood. The BLISS NATIVE HERBS TABLET at night will relieve you the same as R. D. G. J. Kelly, Saco, Va., who says: "For one winter I suffered with muscular rheumatism. I tried all the remedies I heard of, without gaining relief, and I can't tell you how I suffered. A physician prescribed for me a course of electricity. But nothing relieved the pain, and I was nearly driven to despair. I then tried BLISS NATIVE HERBS TABLETS as directed. Thanks to DOCTOR A. O. BLISS, I am well again. That is film
 It is the film coat that dims the teeth's luster. Film is the basis of tartar. Film is the stain-absorber—not the tooth enamel.
 Film is called "bacterial plaque," because germs breed there—millions of them. And countless troubles, local and internal, are now traced to them.
 The acids which cause decay form in that film and stay there. So film removal, day by day, is the vital part of teeth cleaning. Without that, brushing cannot save the teeth.

Let Your Teeth Glisten
 Like the Teeth You See—Remove That Cloudy Film

All Statements Approved by High Dental Authorities

Look about you—note how many white teeth you see nowadays. Your own friends have them—ask them how they get them.
 A new teeth-cleaning method is being fast adopted. Millions of teeth now show the results of it. Leading dentists everywhere advise it. See what that method does, and quickly, on your own teeth. Make this ten-day test.

You must fight film
 To have whiter, safer teeth you must fight film—the cause of most tooth troubles.
 Film is that viscous coat which you feel with your tongue. It is ever-present, ever-forming. It clings to teeth, gets between the teeth and remains.
 The ordinary tooth paste does not dissolve it. A soapy tooth paste makes it more clinging. So the tooth brush has left much of it intact, until a dentist could remove it.
 That is why so many brushed teeth dis-color and decay. Tartar forms and pyorrhea starts. Despite the tooth brush, these tooth troubles have been constantly increasing. Every dentist nowadays knows that this film is responsible.

How teeth are ruined
 The film absorbs stains and becomes discolored. Thus the teeth grow cloudy. Film is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.
 Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. So few escape these troubles if they leave film on the teeth.

Dental science has for years sought a way to fight film, and the way has now been found. Able authorities have proved it by convincing clinical and laboratory tests.
 Now, for home use, the method is embodied in a dentifrice called Pepsodent. In three great ways this tooth paste meets modern dental requirements. Dentists are urging its adoption. And millions of 10-Day Tubes are sent out, so that people may see its effects.

Based on active pepsin Pepsodent is based on pepsin, the digestant of albumin. The film is albuminous matter. The object of Pepsodent is to dissolve it, then to day by day combat it.
 This method long seemed impossible. Pepsin must be activated, and the usual agent is an acid harmful to the teeth. But science has discovered a harmless activating method. Now active pepsin can be daily used. And two other methods are combined with it to bring desired effects.
 The result is a tooth paste which is doing what nothing else has done. And the problem of tooth protection has been solved as it never was before.

Argument not needed
 Pepsodent quickly proves itself. The results are too apparent to be doubtful. So a 10-Day Tube is being sent to anyone who asks. A book goes with it to explain the effects. Thus millions are seeing what it does, and deciding for themselves.
 Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how the teeth whiten as the fixed film disappears.
 Then consider what this means. Film is the teeth's chief enemy. Its removal means not only whiter teeth, but cleaner, safer teeth. The results may be of tremendous importance, both to you and yours. Cut out the coupon so you won't forget.

DANDRUFF SURELY DESTROYS THE HAIR
Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

Beautiful Women of Society, during the past seventy years have relied upon it for their distinguished appearance. The soft, refined, pearly white complexion it renders instantly, it is always the source of flattering comment.

FREE COMPETITION ON WATERWAYS IS URGED BY SHIPPERS

Executive Committee of Industrial Traffic League
Would End Government
Rate Making for Boats.

The Executive Committee of the National Industrial Traffic League, which opened a two-day convention at the Planters Hotel this morning, recommended, among other things,
that free competition among boat operators on inland waterways be re-established without interference of Federal or state bodies in the fixing or regulation of their rates.
The chairman of the committee,
H. C. Barlow, traffic director of the Chicago Association of Commerce, stated for the committee the belief that only in this way could inland waterway traffic be entirely rehabilitated.

The committee also recommended the establishment of joint through water and rail rates and that the Government compel the establishment of these rates and then compel railroads to interchange traffic with water lines on the same basis as with other rail lines.

200 Delegates Attend.
More than 200 delegates were in attendance at the opening session, all of whom are connected in some way with traffic departments of civic organizations or large industrial concerns. The day was given over to the reports of committees, but at the session tomorrow it is expected that measures will be formulated on traffic conditions due to the return of the railroads to private ownership. It is said that approximately 300,000 shippers are represented by the delegates to this convention.

The Committee on Express and Parcel Post submitted a report recommending that the league oppose the continuation of the present consolidation of express companies or any consolidation that will result in lessening competition that formerly existed in the express service.

They follow with the further recommendation that the Executive Committee of the league be empowered to employ counsel to represent the organization before the Interstate Commerce Commission in opposition to the application which is expected to be made by the American Railway Express Co. for approval of the present consolidation, under the provisions of the Esch-Cummins act.

To Act on Rail Problem.
All committee reports were to be voted upon late today. A problem which will be acted upon tomorrow is the division of carriers into groups under the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission. The new railroad bill provides for the division of the railroads into groups for management. The result of the league's conference will be forwarded to the Interstate Commerce Commission for approval next Monday.

W. H. Chandler of Boston is president of the league and other national officers in attendance here are C. E. Childs of Omaha, vice president; E. C. Wilmore of Chicago, treasurer; G. M. Freer of Chicago, secretary and E. F. Lacey of Chicago, assistant secretary.

Among subjects to be discussed are reparation claims arising during Federal control; cash settlement of freight charges; provisions for changes in State and interstate rates, and fares in effect Feb. 20;
proposed advance of freight rates and the proposed uniform telegraphic code.

A banquet will be held at the Planters tonight at which C. W.
Reid of Washington, D. C., a traffic expert, will be the speaker.

PARTS WITH $5; GETS NO LIQUOR Citizen Proves Easy Victim of Conscience Man.

William Ess of 2713 Ann avenue was standing near Eighteenth and Chestnut streets at 8 o'clock last night when a stranger approached him and asked if he would like to buy "little liquor" cheap. Ess said he was willing.

"I can get some for $5 a quart," the stranger confided. Ess gave him the money.

"I got to go down to Sixteenth and Olive streets to get it. You wait here and I'll be right back," the stranger instructed.

Ess waited for an hour and then made a report to the police.

MOVE TO CONTINUE STREET
University City Plans to Divert Traffic From Westgate Avenue.

University City authorities have asked the Circuit Court at Clayton for permission to condemn a strip of land 50 feet wide and 300 feet long, running from North drive to Olive street road for a continuation of Eastgate avenue. A hearing will be held April 19.

The greatest part of the motor traffic from Delmar boulevard to Olive street road is now on Westgate avenue, because of the bad condition of Hodiamont avenue. The proposed street would relieve the traffic from Westgate avenue.

BARTENDER GETS LIFE
TERM FOR KILLING NEGRO

Murder Occurred Last October
Three Days Before Death Penalty Law Was Restored.

George Peak, 32 years old, former bartender at the Madison Hotel, 1824 Market street, yesterday was found guilty of the murder of Charles Madison, negro proprietor of a saloon at 1225 Madison street, at 12:30 a. m. Oct. 5 last and his punishment was fixed at life imprisonment.

Had the shooting occurred three days later the maximum penalty would have been death, as the law restoring capital punishment went into effect Oct. 8.

Madison was shot and killed near Lewis place and Marcus avenue after he had gone there in an undertaker's truck with two other negroes and Peak to get some whisky which Peak had told him was for sale.

No direct evidence against the accused white man was introduced at the trial. No eyewitnesses to the shooting were found and the case against Peak rested wholly on a dying statement made at the city hospital by Madison, when he told Police Lieutenant Kirk that on arriving at Lewis place and Marcus avenue he and Peak got out of the truck and walked east in Lewis place. He said he asked Peak where the whisky was to be found and Peak replied: "To hell with the whisky. It's your money we want." Peak, he said, then shot him and ran away.

Th two negroes who had remained in the truck testified that after the shooting they saw three men running away. They went to where Madison lay and Peak was not there.

Peak testified that he had no part in the shooting and that it was done by three men who tried to hold up him and Madison.

MAN ACCUSED OF SHOOTING
CHIEF O'BRIEN BROUGHT BACK

John Henry Carr, Arrested in Terre Haute, Ind., Refuses to Make a Statement.

John Henry Carr, alias Frank Blankenship, 28 years old, who was arrested yesterday by St. Louis detectives in Terre Haute, Ind., in connection with the shooting of Police Chief O'Brien by one of three robbers who fled after an unsuccessful attempt to hold up the Gerhardt jewelry store, 3224 Olive street, Oct. 31 last, was brought here this afternoon.

Chief O'Brien was not in his office when Carr was brought in, so the latter has not been positively identified as yet. However, Chief of Detectives Hannegan said Carr answered to the Chief's description of his assailant. Carr refused to make a statement. He offered no resistance when arrested.

Carr disappeared after the shooting. When arrested he was working at a steel mill near Terre Haute. He was jointly indicted on March 2 last with Joseph Henry and Armin Ellerbrake for assault to kill and first degree robbery, as a result of the shooting of Chief O'Brien. Henry and Ellerbrake, in their confessions, named Carr as the man who shot the chief.

The chief was wounded in the neck, but has fully recovered.

SISTER HELPED HER BROTHER

Mr. George Schillo, 6206 Pear avenue, Cleveland, Ohio, writes: "I am glad I was recommended to your medicine. I was pretty well run down, nervous, and loss of ambition, felt tired at all times, could not sleep, and had loss of appetite, felt weak and trembled from weakness. I find your Cadomene Tablets are helping me very much. I was writing to my sister about my run down condition. She advised me to take Cadomene, as she had been as bad off as myself. Cadomene built her nerves up and restored her health. I am more than thankful I received her advice." Sold by druggists everywhere.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be radically independent, never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

A Tenant's Association.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
The writer of article signed "A Victim" relative to the "rent hog" has my heartfelt sympathy.

My rent has been increased 35 per cent during the past year, but my income for the past three years has remained the same. In response to complaint of the excessive rental I am frankly told by my landlord that it would be of no avail to move, because moving would cost as much as the increase amounts to, and, furthermore, there are no rooms to be had. From this you can readily see that this tenant has us tenants beat into submission, and we must bow to his majesty, "the landlord," and plead for mercy as to the days of old.

Now, as I will respect law and order, I could not countenance Bolshevism until every fair and reasonable method has been tried to bring this "rent hog" to justice, and, in my opinion, the only way to accomplish this is to organize a tenants' association and compel our lawmakers to protect us from the "rent hog" from this oppressor, the "rent hog."

ANOTHER VICTIM.

Bonus Is Merely Adjustment.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

It is my opinion that all ex-service men are entitled to a bonus, the amount to depend upon the length of service of each individual. I understand someone said the boy do not want a bonus, inasmuch as it was an enviable opportunity to serve their country. The person who made such statement had no authority from me or a great number of other ex-service men personally known to me to include us in the number who do not want a bonus, although we admit that it was an enviable opportunity to serve our country. We do not want a bonus in the form of a gift; we do not want something for nothing; all we want is a square deal, and we are basing our claim as a matter of business, eliminating our estimation as to the value of the enviable opportunity above referred to.

I understand that some of our leaders object to the bonus because of the great expense to the public, because they fear burdensome taxation. This appeals to my sense of humor when my mind is called many instances of reckless and questionable expenditures. When did these men become so conscientious? If they were always so much interested in the public welfare as they now appear to be, wouldn't they have utilized common sense? I consider the objection of such men as a jest, because figures and common sense overrule them.

When the soldier was a necessity, when he was endeavoring to save the world; when he was training, when he was fighting; when he was making his meager wage; the civilians boasted that they were the soldiers' partners, that they were in the second line trenches doing their bit—and they were working hard, too—but they were paid big wages accordingly. They reaped big rewards for their labor; they made huge homes; were enabled to buy and pay for cozy homes; were enabled to buy automobiles. And all the time they were partners to the men in uniform who were working just as hard, just as long and at the risk of their lives enduring hardships and exposure, and receiving meager pay.

New, it is our right as members of this partnership to have an accounting. We are entitled to our share and our share is all we want. We simply want an adjustment. Some call what we want a bonus. This term is really improper, as all we want is our share of the profits of the partnership. As it is we are simply victims, having made sacrifices that hurt, to make the world safe.

No real objection based upon logic and reason can be made to our contention.

E. ST. L.

The Ban on Children.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Wish to say a few words in regard to property owners refusing to rent on account of children. I am one of the unfortunate ones who are compelled to move at the present time, and have been house hunting for the past two months, but without success. Where there is a possible modern flat to be had at an enormous rent, they refuse to rent it because I have a little girl 4 years old. What are we going to do with our children? If I have such a hard time trying to rent a modern flat or apartment with just one child, what do others do that have a family? We cannot all own our own homes, and there is only one thing left to do, get rid of your children or else live on the street. I am just about on the verge of a collapse. It is just about impossible to have someone tell you they can't rent you the flat on account of your child, just as you think you are about to get a place to live in. Our beloved Theodore Roosevelt said every mother ought to raise at least a family of four children, but our beloved Teddy did not reckon properly the disposition of the present property owners. Who will compose the coming generation, if not the children of today, but if there are no more young people in our position, I am afraid there won't be any coming generation.

CONSTITUTIONAL RIGHTS STAND.

The incident of the Busch trucks, seized and searched at Dallas, Tex., which has been closed by an exonerating apology to the Busches by the Federal prohibition enforcement officer who made the seizure, serves to remind enforcement officers that the constitutional bill of rights stands.

Under the ruling of the United States Supreme Court in the Silverthorne case, law officers cannot search and seize property without warrants and cannot use evidence obtained in a wrongful way.

In the Silverthorne case, while the Silverthornes, father and son, were under arrest and detained, the United States Marshal, acting for the Federal Court of the Western District of New York, went to their offices and seized books and papers there without a warrant, "without a shadow of authority," the Supreme Court declared. The original books and papers were returned, but copies containing the evidence wanted were impounded. Subpoenas to produce the originals were served, and when the Silverthornes refused to produce them, the District Court ordered them to comply, although the papers were seized in violation of their constitutional rights. Upon refusing to obey this order they were fined for contempt of court. The evidence obtained was laid before the grand jury. Reversing the ruling of the lower court the Supreme Court, in an opinion concurred in by all the Justices except two, said:

The proposition could not be presented more nakedly. It is that although, of course, its seizure was an outrage which the Government now regrets, it may study the papers before it returns them, copy them, and then may use the knowledge that it has gained to call upon the owners in a more regular form to produce them; that the protection of the constitution covers the physical possession, but not any advantage that the Government can gain over the object of its pursuit by doing the forbidden act. Weeks vs. United States, to be sure, had established that laying the papers directly before the grand jury was unwarranted, but it is taken to mean only that two steps are required instead of one.

In our opinion such is not the law. It reduces the fourth amendment to a form of words. The essence of a provision forbidding the acquisition of evidence in a certain way is that not merely evidence so acquired shall not be used before the court, but that it shall not be used at all. Of course this does not mean that the facts thus obtained become sacred and inaccessible. If knowledge of them is gained from an independent source they may be proved like any other, but the knowledge gained by the Government's own wrong cannot be used by it in the way proposed.

In two recent cases these rights were sustained against the excessive zeal of prohibition enforcement officers. Federal Judge Farris ordered the return to its owner of liquor seized on a search warrant, without definite evidence of its illegal character, and United States Commissioner Matthews of Newark, N. J., took similar action concerning liquor seized on a warrant without definite ground.

The American people still have constitutional rights which law officers are bound to respect.

HERE KAPP SOWED THE WHIRLWIND.

With the resignation of self-appointed Chancellor Kapp, the gains of the Pan-German coup at Berlin are seen to be even more shortlived than was expected. Its evil effects will be more permanent. The party which professed to stand for stability, for a cohesive nation and a well-disciplined, self-restrained people has set a deplorable example to the Reds of Germany, just when that example can have the greatest appeal. The Prussianized, Pan-Germanic leaders are the ones who assert most reproachfully that the loss of the war was due to the indifference to authority of the mass of people and soldiery. But under conditions in which it might have even more disastrous effects than the loss of a war, these leaders have deliberately offered a resistance to constituted authority more flagrant than that of the other classes.

The Reds, encouraged, are already rising against both the imperialists and the officers of the republic. Should the Reds win control, now or at some early date, their first fury would be directed against the persons and property of these lawless Pan-Germans. Who could say that they would get more than they deserve?

A PERFECT TAXING DEVICE.

The plan of taxing tennis and golf permits issued by the Park Department has been suggested by a special committee which the Board of Aldermen had detailed to the job of increasing the city's revenues. The proposed method would accomplish the desired result and as such is entitled to consideration. But before adopting it would it not be well to see if a better scheme cannot be worked out?

That the courts and courses of our parks are liberally patronized is well known. Nevertheless, the tennis enthusiasts and the harmless, if incurable, golf addicts, numerous though they be, are a mere handful compared with those who play neither tennis nor golf. Now, instead of taxing the golfers and tennis players, would it not be quite as sensible, much more lucrative and every whit as constitutional, to tax the nonplayers? We'll say it would.

And our method has immense possibilities. Besides the people who do not play golf or tennis in the parks there are those who never motor along the smooth asphalt miles of our parks. They should be taxed. Taxed, too, should be those who never walk in the parks, or picnic in the parks. Instead of taxing those who use the parks and thereby make park investment of profit to the city, put the penalty on the nonplayers, and put it on good.

But a perfected device which would let no guilty man escape, and no innocent one, either, would be the levying of a tax impartially upon both the patrons and nonpatrons of the park. Surely that would get the money.

MR. MONDELL AND ECONOMY.

Congressman Mondell, Republican House leader, in denouncing Mr. McAdoo's proposal for a billion-dollar reduction in taxes, to be made up by a like issue of bonds, blames the former Secretary of the Treasury for the present high taxes and the necessity for maintaining them. He says:

"Before there can be a reduction in the volume of taxes there must be a reduction of expenditure, and it is toward such reduction that Congress is now bending its energies. If the people will support Congress in its program for reduction of expenditure we shall soon reach a time when we can talk about reducing taxes."

All of which sounds very well from the leader of the Republican majority, but one has only to read the Congressional Record day by day to learn that no energies are being bent by the dominant party to return to peace-time standards. There is lots of talk about economy in the public expense, but the big appropriation bills go through just the same.

The most sincere and persistent champion of economy in Congress is Mr. Blanton of Texas. Hour after hour he arises during the consideration of appropriation bills and moves to eliminate needless sums from these measures, only to be as constantly overruled by the Republican Speaker or by the Republican majority. Mr. Blanton has shown in a letter from the Chief of the Bureau of Efficiency that there are today "40,000 useless, idle and unnecessary clerks" on the Government payroll in Washington, whom the Republicans will not remove by withholding appropriations. The reasons for this timidity is hinted at in the fact that these 40,000 Government clerks are a part of the 200,000 who form the National Federation of Federal Employees, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, and are now engaged in card-indexing friendly and unfriendly members of Congress for the next election. Not only do these clerks intend to remain, but they insist upon bonuses of $450 for all receiving $2500 or less, $350 for all receiving between $2500 and $2500, and $250 for those receiving $4500 and over.

Mr. Mondell believes that the Republicans have cut the estimates of the departments a billion dollars, but this still leaves estimates approved totaling $5,300,000,000, or five times the peace-time basis. As to the floating debt of $3,000,000,000, which might be wiped out by genuine economy, the Republicans apparently intend to let it float.

No section, bureau or department of Government, however useless, is going to abolish itself. As to the employees, we know they sometimes die, but never resign. The plain fact is that the Republicans are in complete control of the public purse to squander or economize as they will.

San Francisco is planning to provide an automobile for every delegate to the Democratic convention. The Golden West must have its Newberry, too.

MR. SULZER AND HIS LANDLORD.

The controversy between Hans Sulzer, Swiss Minister, and Judge W. B. Lamar, his landlord in Washington, growing out of alleged damage to the Lamar home during Mr. Sulzer's tenancy, recalls the cause celebre in which Henry Wheaton figured as Minister of the United States to Prussia in 1846. Upon the Minister's recall in that year his landlord in Berlin detained some of his household effects, in order to secure the payment of damages alleged to be due on account of injuries done to the house during the contract.

Mr. Wheaton appealed to the Prussian Foreign Office, citing his immunity as a diplomatic agent, and the universal custom of exempting his personal property from the local jurisdiction. Much to his surprise and that of this Government, the Prussian Government declined to intervene, holding that the landlord had a right, under the Prussian civil code, to secure himself for rent and other demands upon the goods of his tenant and that the general exemption of a Minister's personal property did not apply in this case.

Although the United States Government took up the matter officially and insisted upon a recognition of the immunity of the Minister's property, the Prussian Government would not recede from its position. And Mr. Wheaton was compelled to pay the amount demanded before his property was restored.

In the present case the Swiss Minister need fear no such turn of events, since the statutes of the United States expressly forbid all process against the person or property of a foreign diplomatic agent, under penalty of three years' imprisonment and fine in the discretion of the court, and any person procuring such processes, including the Judge of the issuing court, is rendered liable as "a disturber of the public repose." The only forum now left for the airing of such controversies is the press, and the only possible settlement lies in the acceptance of the diplomatic agent's counter proposition, if he should make one.

PARODY.
BACKWARD, turn backward, O time in thy sway,
And give us our world again just for a day!

We'll tolerate Wilhelm again on his throne,
For sake of reviewing what once was our own.
The cares that we had—we could laugh at them now—
And smile at the problems which troubled the brow.

It all goes to show, though a lot of us scoff,
We haven't much sense of how well we are off.
It didn't seem then that our status was bliss—
But take the world then and compare it to this!

How pleasant it was, though to justice's cost—
That now irrevocable world we have lost!
Prometheus bound, we by this have adduced,
Was happier still than Prometheus loosed.

The world is made safe for democracy—true;
But the mess it occasioned—when shall we be through?

The years are swift speeding, fast wasters the sun—
We want to be happy and get the thing done!

We fear from the rumpus and all of its fronts,
We had too damned many reforms come at once.

At any rate, backward, by hook or by crook,
And give us one thoughtful, comparative look!

The rising price of gasoline is probably more significant than we imagine. Oil of the sort from which gasoline is extracted is giving out in that part of the country from which we have been getting it cheaply, and by the time most of us get automobiles gasoline will like as not cost more than we can dig up for it. There is no mirage in the oil country itself like that which leads those of us who have never worn two watch chains occasionally to believe that we are about to mingle with the people who do.

The automobile has been democratized in Nebraska until one in every seven persons out there has one. That is a little nearer realization of the eternal dream than our luck likes, so oil begins to give out and gasoline starts upon that dizzy career through which it will become to most of us in time something as remote as the Milky Way. There is no such thing as a world such as Ford has thought to give us, any more than there is any such thing as its opposite. Both are deceptions upon which we cannot live. We can live only at the oasis between the two extremes.

Bill Haywood said the working people would have automobiles or nobody would—which was not what Bill thought, since no thinking person could say that, but was what he felt. We blame one another at times that it is not the same with each of us, irrespective of either of our capacities or the stars under which we were born; yet Nature herself is refusing to give up oil as freely as she did before we were all about to become alike, so we must believe that it is not always the fault of the haves that we have the have-nots. We are getting into deep going here, much deeper than anybody drills for oil. Nevertheless, mental pushers have to be brought in. It must be somebody's business to drill for truth and try to cap it when it comes in. It is, after all, the most precious thing—the thing we can least afford to waste. Have the cap ready, and don't stand too close to the drill. She may come in almost any minute going through stuff like this.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

This column is designed to reproduce within the latest comment by the leading public newspapers and periodicals on the questions of the day.

ECONOMIC LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

GLENN FRANK in the Century.
AT ABOUT the time that the Senate was rejecting the political league of nations at Washington, in November last, an economic league of nations was being formed at Atlantic City. The venture grew out of the visit to this country of the business missions from England, France, Italy and Belgium. The time is particularly auspicious for the new organization. We now see more clearly than ever before that a merely political league of nations is inadequate for the task of administering the modern world. We are not far enough out of the woods of narrow nationalism to turn ourselves to diplomats alone. Lasting peace is rooted in the economic relations of the world. It has been suggested before in these columns that lasting peace will never come to the world until economic statehoodship frankly faces the minimum economic rights—the rights of transit, trade, investment and migration—that every nation must be guaranteed before international harmony can be expected.

KEEPING YOUNG.

J. LODGE ARMOUR in Forbes Magazine.
THE most conspicuous fact about great men who do big things, and keep on doing them, is that they never cease growing. They are perpetually young. They have the rest of which Ponce de Leon's "Fountain of Youth" was only an imitation. If a man sets his heart upon growing, he has but three things to do. First, he must be a learner all his life. Then, he must be a thinker—and must think hard. Finally, he must be a doer. Some people are lazy in thinking but short on doing. They are dreamers. Success and rewards always come to the person who continues to grow, but the greatest reward consists in having found the secret that makes life continuously interesting.

AN AMERICAN IMPERIALIST.

From the New York World.
In England the people who frown upon every ideal of the league of nations are called jingo and Tories; in France and Italy, militarists; in Germany, Junkers; in Austria and Hungary, dynastic Hapsburgers; in Turkey, Germanophiles; in Russia, Czarists, and in Japan, expansionists and warriors. All are imperialists and reactionaries. Sympathizing with these elements as only a member of the Old Guard and a standpatter can, Senator Lodge naturally is hurt because the President in his recent letter referred rather pointedly to the revival of the militaristic spirit in France and Italy. The Senator has made a careful survey of the world, especially of Europe, and he can see no signs of Torism, Junkerism or militarism here. Everything is proceeding normally. The nations that have the power are helping themselves in the good old way and they are preparing to keep all that they can hold.

It is not often that the Senator reveals his state of mind so unreservedly. Where every grown-up man is a Tory, it is not surprising that he should be so. The treaty controversy at Washington, which has so long divided the Senate, is but a reflection of the old order at home and abroad. He sees in that contrivance the probability of things as they have been, and his conservatism revolts at the prospect. To him peace on any new-fangled theories of justice and popular rights is as offensive to him as is the trained in the ancient diplomacy. The way to make nations and races tranquil is to pin them down with the bayonet.

If the American people, confused in some manner by the treaty controversy at Washington, will examine the men and things in Europe that will Senator Lodge's most cordial approval, they will see why the league of nations is so hateful to him. All imperialists are standing together.

ON his way downtown campaign. He would have been a great man with whom the Tyron could have seemed to regard him. He went first to the Tyron and asked to see him. "Well," said Mr. Jones, "I had been admitted. 'W' on people today?" "I'm not with the Jones," Wally said with a new which showed in looking for a job.

"Um!" Mr. Jones' cordial to the austere.

"Yes."

"How do you come to this?"

"I don't know," Wally said. "Mr. Tyron let me go to the office and asked to see him."

There was nothing in the matter, nothing to be done, and the perfect me of a job, and very much Jones shook his head.

YOU CAN'T TELL TILL YOU TRY

by Clarence Budington Kelland

ILLUSTRATED BY HERBERT MORTON
STOOPS

(Second Installment.)

ON his way downtown Wally mapped out his campaign. He would try the big lumber concern first. Surely in that town, with its timber interests, there would be a place for him. There were a great many men who knew him with whom he had come in contact during his years with the Tyson company, and some of them had seemed to regard him in a friendly manner.

He went first to the Hoosier Hardware company and asked to see Mr. Jones.

"Well," said Mr. Jones cordially when Wally had been admitted. "What can I do for the Try-ans people today?"

"I'm not with the Try-ans any more, Mr. Jones," Wally said with a feeling of shamefacedness which showed in his manner. "I'm—I'm looking for a job."

"Um!" Mr. Jones' manner changed from the genial to the austere. "Bookkeeper, ain't you?"

"Yes."

"How do you come to be out of a job?"

"I don't know," Wally said honestly enough. "Mr. Tryon let me go Saturday—but he said I might refer anybody to him."

There was nothing aggressive about Wally's manner, nothing to impress, nothing assertive. He was the perfect model of a young man out of a job, and very much worried by that fact. Jones shook his head coldly.

"There's no opening here now," he said. "I'll give your name to our head bookkeeper, and if anything turns up we'll let you know. Good-morning."

This was the first of a series of such conversations. Before noon Wally had had four of them, and by the close of the business day he had applied to no less than nine concerns, each of which had received him gently until his announcement of his mission, and had then, harshly and superciliously, or carelessly, informed him there was no place for him. Toward the end of the day he entered every office with an apologetic bangor air that was enough to earn him a sneer, and he had been told that he did not expect to get a job, that he had mighty little confidence in himself, and so, unerringly, made the worst possible impression upon every possible employer.

He went home tired, discouraged, almost despondent, but Ruth welcomed him cheerfully. She offered no advice, made no complaints, but was unaffectedly glad to see him and manifestly as proud of him as ever. It was not part of her plan to offer suggestions or sympathy. It was not time for her to take a hand yet. What she had reached a state of mind where he would, in sheer desperation, rise to the mental attitude demanded by her plan of campaign.

"Everybody turned me down," he said hardily. "I've been to every firm in town where I can hope to get a decent job. Now I'll have to try the second raters."

"Don't jump at the first job that offers," she said sternly. "What you want is a better place than you had."

"What I want is almost anything that will support you," he said hoarsely.

"We've $300," she reminded. "That means three months. Take your time, and—pick the jobs over."

He smiled ruefully. How little women knew of practical business, he thought. Why, Ruth talked as if the town was chock full of jobs to be sorted over by him as if they were oranges. He had the average man's respect for a position, the average man's feeling that to be out of a job was a calamity, and that the man who had not was somehow in disgrace. Sort them over, indeed! He went about as if he had some sort of distinguishing mark on him—a scarlet letter of unemployment, and his mental attitude was altogether that of a man on the defensive.

"Remember," Ruth said as he went down the steps next morning, "don't take any job that isn't good as you can get. Don't you dare!" She said it gayly, merrily, but somehow he had an uneasy consciousness that she meant what she said.

That day was a repetition of the day before. Nobody had time to talk to him. When it was found that he was jobseeking he was dismissed curtly with no encouragement. He was occupied so briefly with each man he saw that he had time to call on 12 concerns before 5 o'clock, and went home tired with tramping and his heart weighted by cold fear. Nobody wanted him. He was no good. He was a failure, and God only knew what would become of him and Ruth now.

Ruth had her moments of remorse. Always she tried to make up to him for the unhappiness she was causing him by being very loving, and always very proud of him, but she did not relent. It was bitter medicine she was forcing between his lips, but it was to effect a cure and she could not draw back.

"He's all right," she said. "I've got confidence in him. Wally's as good as anybody, I know."

So she persisted day after day, waiting for him to reach that stage of desperation where he would be willing to do anything, where he would even be so desperate as to try the plan she was going to suggest—and he would have to be pretty desperate to do that, she knew. If Wally was lacking anywhere it was in self-appreciation, in militant assertiveness, in the quality which demands and gets its own way.

Two weeks went by. Wally had known plenty of unpleasant experiences, and little hope or encouragement had been held out to him.

At the end of the third week he came home in such a state of despondency that Ruth was really worried.

"I've got to have work, any work," he said.

Wally thought that conversation over many times, and to him it seemed absurd. Maybe that was the way to approach an old bear like Pringle, but it was no way to ask a job of an ordinary business man. No. Jobs were not things that came to one by right, but by favor. A man who gave you a job was a benefactor—that was Wally's view, and because he was at the point he occupied.

At the end of the third week he came home in such a state of despondency that Ruth was really worried.

"I've got to have work, any work," he said.

him. Once or twice he had met with a bit of sympathy or been given a word of decent advice, but that was all. One old gentleman of belligerent aspect had roared at him. It was Old Man Pringle, known to the lumber trade as a tartar.

"Look here, young man," Pringle had bellowed at him, "you come ainkin' in here like an alley cat. You act like somebody was goin' to bash you one. What the hell way is that to ask for a job? If I had a job I wouldn't give you one. There ain't no light in you. You're licked. You come in actin' like you expect to be kicked out. Here, lemme show you how to ask for a job."

The old lumber pirate stood up before Wally. "You're me," he said, "and I'm you. Now listen! I'll guarantee you your money's worth and a little more, and I'll start for $2000 just to show you." The old man paused. "You don't expect to get $2000," he said, "but you never git more'n you ask. See? Now that's the way to ask for a job. Have some gut up and grit about you. Now clear out and don't go cringin' in to the next man like you done to me."

Wally thought that conversation over many times, and to him it seemed absurd. Maybe that was the way to approach an old bear like Pringle, but it was no way to ask a job of an ordinary business man. No. Jobs were not things that came to one by right, but by favor. A man who gave you a job was a benefactor—that was Wally's view, and because he was at the point he occupied.

At the end of the third week he came home in such a state of despondency that Ruth was really worried.

"I've got to have work, any work," he said.

"I'll buy me a shovel and get into a ditch. Maybe somebody will give me a job scaling in a lumber yard or something. I don't care what it is, I've got to work."

"Wally Seymour," said Ruth coolly, but with intention, "if you do such a thing I'll leave you. If you take any job that isn't as good as the one you had, I won't live with you."

"Ruth!"

"I mean it, honey," she said, "and it isn't because I wouldn't be willing to stick to you through anything. If it was necessary I'd live with you on nothing a week, but it isn't necessary and I won't have it."

"I'm afraid it is necessary, dear," he said listlessly. "I've been hunting for a job nearly a month. I'm just no good, I guess."

"You're so good that—O, I almost lose my patience with you. The trouble with you is that you're looking for the wrong kind of a job."

"What do you mean?"

"Why, you a $10,000 man looking for a $1200 job. No wonder you don't get it. It's like—a man with a bass voice trying to sing soprano. You can't be done. That's what's the matter. You think you're a cheap man, but you aren't. You're an expensive man. You don't know how to get an expensive job. Right off folks can see they don't want you for that kind of a job."

"Nonsense," said Wally, but it made him feel mighty good to have her talk that way—even now after weeks of failure.

"Wally, do you really want to amount to something?"

"Of course, my dear."

"And I want you to. I know you, and I'm proud of you when I think you're only a bookkeeper. But other folks don't know what you are, and I want them to. Wally, will you do exactly what I want you to for two weeks? It can't do you any harm. Will you do everything I tell you to, and say what I tell you to, and act like I tell you to for two weeks?"

"What's the idea?"

"Never you mind, honey. Promise."

"I—why I'm in a state of mind to do anything."

"It's a promise?"

"Yes."

"Then we go to Boston in the morning."

"Boston! What for?"

"To start a revolution."

"What revolution?"

"The Wally Seymour revolution—that turns you from a $1500 man to a $15,000 man."

Wally almost grinned.

"I mean it," she said, "and you've promised. You're promised."

"I've promised," he repeated.

"We've got over $200 left," Ruth said. "Thank goodness, you've got that good suit. We'll stop at the Coplay Plaza—a good room, too. I've figured $10 a day for that. What are the very best cigars there?"

"I thought I did, but," Ruth said. "Thank goodness, you've got that good suit. We'll stop at the Coplay Plaza—a good room, too. I've figured $10 a day for that. What are the very best cigars there?"

you were about," she said. "Do you know what I've been doing?"

"Looking for a job," he said grimly.

"A $1500 job—yes. Do you know why you haven't got it? Because the world is jammed full of $1500 men. There are half a dozen of them to every job. All the $1500 jobs are used up, and there's a line waiting for a vacancy. That's why. There are million of $1500 men in this world. Men are always looking for $1500 jobs. But," she said, and she shook her finger at him severely, "who ever heard of a man looking for a $15,000 job? No sir. Fifteen thousand dollar jobs look for men. There are more $15,000 jobs than there are men to fill them. The trouble is that men are afraid of $15,000 jobs. You've always put yourself in the $1500 class—and look where you are? I've known you were in the $15,000 class, and you're going to be in it for a week anyhow. That's what I'm getting at, and right now you start to take lessons in how to act."

"But, my dear!"

"You promised. Couldn't you hold down a $15,000 job—in the lumber business? Can't you do anything Mr. Layton can do?"

"Well, maybe I could if I had to."

"Well, you've got to," she almost snarled. "The first thing is to learn how to act like a $15,000 man. We'll begin now. I'm a lumberman. I've been having trouble for a year past, because I can sell the best grades of lumber, but my No. 2 common won't move. You and I have met casually and I am talking to you about it. I'm asking you for a suggestion, because I know you are an expert. Now, what do you tell me?"

"I've thought a minute, and I've said in a sort of apologetic manner, 'I don't think you should have allowed your common to accumulate. You should have figured on the market, maybe, and if you knew your cut was going to run high in low grades, you should have—found some way to utilize it.'"

"Huh! Fifteen hundred dollar talk. Listen! This is how you ought to say it. Sort of firm and sure, and O, snappy." She sat back and assumed an air. "It's elementary that No. 2 common is hard to get rid of. You should have watched your cut. If it was running

For Two Days in Succession the Athletics Have Come Within an Ace of Beating the Cards

Asher Wins From Boy Who Knocked Wilde to the Mat

St. Louis Bantamweight Floors Wallace in the First and Then Outpoints Him.

WINNER HAS BAD HAND

"Babe" Unable to Use His Right Much Owing to Injury in Edwards Bout.

DETROIT, March 18.—Johnny "Babe" Asher of St. Louis, bantam champion of the American Expeditionary Force, started after Patsy Wallace of Philadelphia last night as though he were going to show up Jimmy Wilde's performance against the same opponent. As Wallace was being in at the start of the opening round Asher scored heavily to his opponent's eye, scoring a clean knockdown.

The aggressive Wallace leaped to the feet and pursued Asher around the ring. The elusive tactics of the St. Louisan, combined with his skill and fast hitting, enabled him to run up a big lead on points, however—a lead that, not even Wallace's strong push in the tenth and final round could wipe out. At the close Asher was a winner by an undisputed margin.

Wallace, however, fought an aggressive, game bout. He appeared to carry a heavier punch than Asher, notwithstanding it was Asher that caused the only knockdown of the evening.

Asher weighed 122 pounds.

It was said by the promoters that Asher was over the weight agreed upon, 118 pounds, but that Wallace had declined to take his forfeit. One report gave the men's weights as 124 for Wallace, 122 for Asher.

Wallace is the boy who recently knocked down champion Jimmy Wilde in the sixth round of their encounter at Philadelphia. For this bout Wallace weighed 112 pounds; Wilde, Asher weighed 116 pounds.

Last night Asher led his opponent to the fourth round. Here Wallace scored heavily a number of times and evaded the session.

The next four rounds were about the fastest ever seen here. Asher fought a wonderful exhibition of quick footwork and hitting. Asher pleased the crowd by his clean methods. Wallace invariably doing the clinching, when the mixups became too hot.

The ninth round was a little slow owing to the hard exertions of the men previously; but in the final seconds the battle was furious and Wallace may have had a bad start in this period.

Max Cogan, substituting for John Dundee who was stricken with influenza yesterday morning, easily outpointed Johnnie Mendelsohn, in the other 10-round feature.

Asher's Hand Still Bad.

After his fight Asher complained that he had hurt his right hand again in the first round and had been compelled to use his left almost exclusively for the remainder of the bout. Asher said he had hurt his hand in a previous contest with Edwards, at Beaumont, Ill.

Asher's showing was so good that several promoters are now trying to match him for another bout here. Above 100 fans were present when he left the ring.

Puchta Insists That Champion Make 135 Pounds at 5 O'Clock

ST. LOUIS lightweight, who may meet Tommy Murphy, A. U. titleholder, in a bout at National Sporting Club.

GEORGE PUCHTA.

Tommy Brannell, boxing instructor of the South Broadway Athletic Club, announced this morning that George Puchta, amateur lightweight champion of St. Louis, had decided not to let Tommy Murphy of Kansas City, national amateur lightweight champion, make 135 pounds at noon for the proposed bout at the National Sporting Club show at the Armory, March 26.

Puchta will meet Murphy if the latter will agree to make 135 pounds at 5 o'clock on the evening of this bout, but the local boxer and Brannell feel that 135 at noon would make the battle a very heavy one for Puchta, whose best fighting weight is 132 pounds ringside.

Murphy, who won his title two years ago, and who spent about two years in the army, is considerably over the lightweight limit, now, and his trainer yesterday wired to the Post-Dispatch that Murphy was training for the A. U. championships at Boston and did not deem it wise to take off weight too rapidly. To the championships it will be necessary to make 135 pounds three hours before fighting time.

Puchta, who is considered one of the best boys developed here in recent years, started his athletic career as a runner and three years ago held the Western A. U. 440-yard championship. He started boxing about that time under the tutelage of George Block, then boxing instructor at the Columbian Athletic Club.

Puchta is 23 years old and married, and is employed in the payroll department of the Terminal Railroad Association.

At Boston and the Olympic games, if he wins a place on the American team, Puchta plans to enter the professional ranks. He explains that if he wins many more cups he will have to move into a larger house, and that he feels that by next fall he will have served his time in the amateur ranks.

Training Camp News

Baker Expected to Return. JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 18.—Gossip around the training camp of the New York Yankees here has it that Frank Baker, the hard-hitting third sacker, who following the 1919 campaign announced his retirement is seriously thinking of returning to the national pastime. It is said that Captain Huston, one of the owners, will soon make a trip to Trappe, Md., to interview the infielder.

Holbrook Looks Good. HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 18.—One of the young pitchers who is striving for a regular berth with the Boston Red Sox in camp here has made a very favorable impression, is Holbrook. Holbrook has shown a good curve and control.

Looks Like Hans Wagner. BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 18.—Ralph Miller, one of the semiprofessional players, who is trying to land the regular third sacker berth with the Philadelphia Nationals, looks like Hans Wagner, the former star pitcher and outfielder. However, according to reports, Miller does not play anything like the old Pirate did.

Nels Has Made Good. JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 18.—Bernie Nels, a youngster arriving from the Western Canada League by the Brooklyn Superbas, has made good and has landed the regular right field berth with the club. Nels will replace Tom Griffith, who has announced his retirement. Nels has been hitting the ball hard and fielding in great style.

Fisher Is Only Absentee. MIAMI, Fla., March 18.—Ray Fisher, the veteran right-hander, is now the only absentee at the training camp of the world's champion Reds here. Fred Eller, who has just recovered from a slight attack of influenza, has started to limber up his pitching arm. Harry Salise, southpaw, also has recovered from a slight illness.

Farmer to Be Released. MACON, Ga., March 18.—It is the intention of Manager Hugh Jennings of the Tigers to release Jack Farmer, who was obtained from Nashville to the Vols if waivers can be obtained from the major league clubs. Cobb, Veach, Flanagan and Shorten will again patrol the meadows for the Junglers.

Los Angeles Beats Cubs. LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 18.—Chicago Nationals 3, 1; Los Angeles Cubs 4, 10, 3. Batteries: Hendrix, Newkirk and Daly; Schultz, Dumovich, McKay, Thomas and Lapan, Pirates.

New Hurlers Lack Control, but Have Stuff, Says Burke

Browns' Manager Orders Long Sessions to Curb Wildness of Four Young Mound Men.

TAYLOR, Tex., March 18.—With the exception of four men, the Browns are in good condition. The exceptions, who are not being counted on to break into a game against the Cardinals are: Bert Gallia, who only recently reported and has not had time to get into shape; Harry Strong, the recruit first sacker, who has a sore arm; Ray Richmond, a young pitcher, who worked so strenuously the first week here that he developed a sore arm, and Ray Sanders, who has a very lame ankle, the result of being hit by a batted ball.

Burke stated last night that he was well pleased with the showing his men had made here in their practice work.

"Some of my pitchers are still a little wild, but I am not worried about this, as the hurlers still have two weeks' time in which to develop accuracy," Sothoron and Shocker can be depended upon to take the ball over, but Davis, Vandiller, Bayne and Levere are inclined to display a serious streak of wildness. I am counting on all these pitchers getting into the series against the Cardinals, and I am sure they will make a good showing. They have all shown me that they have plenty of stuff and stout hearts, lacking only in steadiness. I will see that the pitchers get the necessary amount of work to accomplish the task of acquiring control."

Yesterday the thermometer registered 82 in the shade and Burke worked his crew hard both morning and afternoon, the practice being really the best the players have had since landing here Feb. 25.

Jimmy Austin was responsible for some of the players showing signs of weariness last night. Jim urged the boys into racing him around the bases yesterday afternoon. He talked a long time before he could get anyone to race him, and several times he chased around the infield alone. Finally Kenneth Williams and the latter consented to get into a race against Austin. Sister Bert Williams and Austin to the plate by several feet. Austin continued to take on all comers.

Local Prep Fives Depart for State Basketball Event

Kenrick and Clayton Expect to Make Strong Title Bid at Columbia.

Three local scholastic basketball squads will depart this afternoon for Columbia, Mo., where they will compete in the fourth annual State high school championship tournament, tomorrow and Saturday.

Kenrick High School, St. Louis scholastic basketball five, the Clayton High School team, St. Louis City Union, and the University City High School will compete in the elimination tournament of Class 2, which brings together schools with enrollments of less than 250 students. Teams in Class 1, representative of schools with enrollments over 250 students, will also compete in the elimination tournament, the two class champions meeting in the final game for the State championship.

Brother John Black, coach of the Kenrick squad, will take 15 players to Columbia. Capt. Kelly, Mortimer Steele, Mullen, Rotermund, Krings, Wiegand, Butler, Duggan and Muehlberg.

Kenrick won the local "prep" title last Saturday night by defeating South, winners in the High School League race, 29 to 19, before 2500 people. The team has not lost a local "prep" game all season and its right to the championship is undisputed.

Kenrick "Today" Kamp, the former Washington University guard and captain, will have eight players in his Clayton party, which leaves for Columbia, this afternoon. Coach Schneck, Danny, Weir, Forsythe, Andrae and Schwenk.

Clayton won the county title game Friday night, 19 to 15, before 1500 people. The team lost only one game all season, dropping this to Kirkwood. Coach B. L. Roberts of the University High School quintet, departed this afternoon with 10 men. The squad included: C. Moore, S. Weber, W. Woods, W. Jones, F. Stuckman, H. Jones, J. Davis, Crawford and Praxier. The team finished in the County League championship race.

HERZOG TO TRY TO PLAY WITHOUT UNDERGOING OPERATION UNTIL FALL

CHICAGO, March 18.—Pennant hopes for the Chicago Nationals ascended a notch today when headquarters here received reports that Buck Herzog, veteran second baseman, had performed creditably in a practice game yesterday at Los Angeles. Herzog played in a new steel harness because of a hernia suffered since the Cubs started spring training at Pasadena, Cal. Upon his showing in yesterday's practice session, it had been announced, depended whether Herzog immediately underwent an operation or attempted to play through the season strapped in the truss.

CENTRAL Y. M. C. A. FIVE WILL MEET WINNERS OF CHICAGO TOURNAMENT

The Central Y. M. C. A. team, winner of the local municipal basketball championship, will meet the Associated College Y. M. C. A. five of Chicago in a series of three games at Chicago on March 26 and 27. The Associated College quintet recently won an open tournament held in the Illinois metropolis.

The squad of seven men is being sent for the series by Harry Burt, an enthusiastic follower of the "Y" quintet. The players who will make the trip are Pete French and Emory Henway, forwards; Clarence Sanford and Mervyn Kanastheiner, center; Russell Nies, Clifford French and Joe Roberts, guards.

Cardinals Again Beat Mackmen by One-Run Margin

Sherdel Hurls Entire Game, the Second Member of Rickey's Staff to Go the Route.

McALLEN, Tex., March 18.—Anyone who believes that the Cardinals and Athletics are not trying hard to beat each other is laboring under a misapprehension. Only two games of the 16-game series have been played, but already there have been quarrels between the players of the two clubs, while Ford Hunter, who is umpiring the contests, has been the target for many unkind remarks, hurled from both benches.

Rickey is working hard to win. He picked Harold Janvry to play shortstop in the opening game because Janvry is in better condition than Dr. John Lavan, the club's regular shortfielder. Rickey also had started Ed Bogart, the Regina recruit, in both games because Bogart at this stage, is in better shape than Austin McHenry or Jack Smith.

Rickey yesterday sent a hurry-up call for Elmer Jacobs to come from Brownsville because three of the four pitchers who originally started on the tour had been called upon for work in the first game.

From a St. Louis standpoint, the series continued to be pleasing. The Cardinals won yesterday's game at Pharr, Tex., by the narrow margin of 9 runs to 8. As on the day previous the Cardinals got off to a good lead only to have this cut down.

Yesterday was the second time since the Cardinals went into training that a pitcher went the full route of nine innings. Bill Sherdel, who pitched to the last two batters in Tuesday's game, went all the way. He was nicked for 13 hits, three more than the Cardinals got off Bigbee, Robert and Riddell's game.

But Sherdel's game was better than the score would indicate, especially in the fifth inning, when he collected six runs, fanned the short lefthander. The game was played on a farm that a week ago had been a mesquite field. It had been cleared in a hurry and hadn't been sufficiently rolled and dragged.

Jack Fournier and Cliff Heathcote batted home runs. They don't have a big day for the latter, who also turned in a single and a triple. After Hornsby had nicked two singles he retired and with the Cards having a 2-1 lead Ray Blades finished out the string at second base.

Pharr, Tex., is a town of 300 white population, but the town is the scene of the game. By actual count there were more than 250 automobiles forming an enclosure for the otherwise open field. They don't have a fence around their playing field in this neck of the woods.

Elmer Jacobs will twist today's game at San Benito, Tex. He probably will be opposed by Kinney, the former Red Sox.

SPORTS SALAD

Painters, Ancient and Modern. THE new scale for painters' wages has been set at $1.25 per hour.—News Item.

Painters in a former age had got the present union wage. We'd have but few "old masters" to heights commercial not sublime. They would have been constrained to club.

And garner the plasters. If Whistler were alive today And drew a union painter's pay. For working union hours. No doubt he'd take up painting signs Of various and quaint designs. Instead of trees and flowers.

Brer Landseer would lay off the dogs And putting on his working togs He'd grab a brush and bucket. And when he'd earned his twelve per day.

Oh Saturday he'd draw his pay. And say: "How rich I've struck it!" If Titian, whom the critics praise, Had ever had his palmy days. Received a painter's wages. No doubt he would have made a name.

And climbed to his immortal fame With pulleys, ropes and stages.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

By James J. Montague.

THE BULGAR AND THE PROFITEER.

Although the Brutal Bulgar
Is neither good or kind,
And rather unrefined,
Though lacking in compassion,
And low above the ears,
We quite applaud his fashion
Of swatting profiteers.

When gouged for lard or butter,
When gyped for cod or shad,
The Bulgar doesn't mutter,
"Now isn't that too bad?"
With vengeance rough and hearty
Applied with brutal force,
He grabs the guilty party,
And justice takes its course.

The person who advances
The price of bread or beef,
To suit his grasping fancies,
Is held to be a thief.
With heavy chains they tie him
In some convenient place,
Where people passing by him
Can punch him in the face.

This punishment suffices
(As food quotations show)
To keep prevailing prices
Astoundingly low.
I look upon the Bulgar
With awe and reverence,
Although his ways are vulgar,
He's got good common sense.

"Down to Brass Tacks"

Old school business men selected a bank because it was "solid." They didn't demand or expect much besides safety.

And "help from the bank" was a subject to be introduced in sotto.

But their practice has given way to the canny "What's In It For Me?" of the modern executive.

He insists upon "getting down to brass tacks"; upon exchanging his account, which is valuable to the bank, for the definite Banker Support so necessary to the development of his business.

The phrase, "Advice If You Seek It, Money When You Need It," may suggest that "brass tacks" is an expression not unknown to us. And that an interview with one of our officers would not be out of line.
